THANK YOU, VICTORIA

"Convalescing nicely, thank you," say Archie and Dot McKinnon, now in Honolulu on the vacation furnished by friends in Victoria after the "Y" physical director was badly injured in a fall last October. They pose with the conventional decoration of the famed island resort. Archie reports himself in greatly improved condition from the rest, sunshine and warm water swimming at Waikiki, says Mrs. McKinnon and is becoming more expert all the time at the crawl.

SIU MEN ASK POLICE PROBE OF RED INFLUX

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two members of the Seafarers' International Union (I.U.) have asked for a full-scale RCMP investigation into alleged Communist infiltration of the labor movement in Canada.

Brain Trust Will Map U.S. Future

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower appointed an 11-member national goals commission today "to identify the great issues of our generation" and recommend national policies for the next decade or more.

"The commission has the opportunity to sound a call for greatness to a resolute people in the best tradition of our founding fathers," the president said in a memorandum outlining its job.

Today's long-delayed announcement carries out a plan first proposed by Eisenhower in his 1959 state of the union message to congress.

The membership includes five educators, two business executives, a labor leader, an editor, a retired general, and a retired jurist.

It was announced Wednesday that Dr. Henry Wriston, former president of Brown University and now president of the American assembly at Columbia University, would be chairman of the commission. Frank Pace, former secretary of the Army and now chairman of the board of General Dynamics Co., Inc., was also named vice-chairman.

OTHER MEMBERS

The remaining nine named today were: James Killian, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Alfred Gruenther, president of the American Red Cross and former NATO commander; Clark Kerr, president of the University of California; Learned Hand, retired justice of the U.S. Circuit Court at New York; Erwin Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor and president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce; Colgate Darden, former governor of Virginia and former president of the University of Virginia; James Conant, former president of Harvard University and former ambassador to the West German republic; George Meany president of the AFL-CIO, and Crawford Greenwalt, president of E. I. DuPont de Nemours and Co., Inc.

The White House said the panel would be financed by private sources and would use no government funds.

In his memorandum Eisenhower said: "We are now the strongest nation on earth. This fact brings with it the realization that with power comes responsibility."

"We have found ourselves in a position in which the entire free world looks to us for leadership and help, in the first instance against an aggressive Communist conspiracy, but more broadly in the world-wide struggle for realization of decent conditions of life."

Under an agreement with other companies, he said, those in the south would supply as many customers as possible until periods when their rivers were at a minimum cycle in power production. Then the power, utilizing its vast storage facilities, would take over and provide continuous power even in poor years.

Mr. Chantrell described the Rocky Mountain Trench as the "best part of Canada for mid-northern development," and stressed that "nothing of any account" will be spoiled.

He said transmission of Peace power was definitely no more expensive than any other power transmission, and predicted the total transmission losses for Peace River power would be six to seven per cent compared with eight to 10 per cent with similar operations.

AFTER THE SHOOTING

Cuban Officials Blamed for Shots

HAVANA (AP) — The impression developed today that all the shooting which threw the opening of the Soviet exposition into turmoil Friday came from trigger-happy Cuban guards and police.

Newspaper handling of the story contributed to a widely-held belief the gunfire that marred Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan's visit came solely from official efforts to break up an anti-Communist student demonstration.

All but one of Havana's morning newspapers played down the shooting, which erupted in a nearby park minutes before the scheduled inauguration of the Soviet exposition at the Fine Arts Palace.

Neo-Nazi Vandals Get Jail Terms

COLOGNE, Germany (AP) — Two neo-Nazi vandals who touched off a world-wide wave of anti-Jewish outbursts by the Christmas Eve desecration of the Cologne synagogue were sent to jail today by the state court here.

Arnold Strunk, 25-year-old baker who said he defaced the shrine to draw attention to the "Jewish danger to the German race," was sentenced to one year and two months.

Paul Schoenen, also 25 and an apprentice clerk, drew a 10-month term for assisting Strunk.

lery, the results might parallel what happened recently in Hamilton, Mr. Jarvis said.

Hamilton's council appointed a commission of artists to choose 15 paintings and design mural and sculpture for the new city hall, he said. Artists gave their time free.

"Then one member of the city council pulled the carpet right out from under them. He was a plumber who thought art work wouldn't be popular with the voters, so Hamilton is getting a new city hall utterly unembellished. This is shocking."

Mr. Jarvis gave a firm "never" to suggestions advanced here recently that city council take over the financing of the gallery.

"I don't want to be rude about it, but you can hardly run an art gallery like the street sanitation department."

City council gave $27,500 to the gallery last year and has donated a total of $178,050 in the last 10 years. The art association has raised $344,050 in the same period.

Salute Starts False Alarm Of Royal Birth

READY TO FLEE FROM VOLCANO

KILAUEA CRATER, Hawaii (UPI) — Hawaii Red Cross officials set up an emergency relief centre and prepared evacuation plans today as ominous steam clouds and hissing issued from the Halemaumau firepit inside Kilauea crater.

The Red Cross moved cots and blankets into the Mountain View School a few miles from the crater and the agency's disaster chairman on the big island placed workers on a standby basis for immediate call.

Cannon Shots For Anniversary

LONDON (AP) — The bark of big guns and the peal of church bells convinced thousands of Londoners today that Queen Elizabeth's baby had arrived at last. But it was just a false alarm.

The noise of artillery salute, echoing over the city commemorated the eighth anniversary of the Queen's accession to the throne.

Thousands of people, hearing the mingled sound of the bells and guns, rang newspaper offices.

"Is it a boy or girl?" they breathlessly asked. They were told it was neither.

Outside Buckingham Palace, crowds cheered Prince Philip as he drove home from a shooting vacation in Norfolk to be near his wife when the baby is born.

SPARKED BY HYDE PARK

The midday boom of a 41-gun salute from Hyde Park started the rumor that events had preceded him.

In the East End, Cockneys heard the 61-gun broadside from the gaunt, grey Tower of London, and the rumor spread.

Elsewhere, ships and shore batteries fired 21-gun salutes.

When the baby arrives, the bell-ringers will sound a full peal of bells, which is reserved only for royal marriages, births and coronations.

The birth date is still anybody's guess. Miss Helen Rowe, the Queen's maternity nurse, has not yet taken up residence at Buckingham Palace. She is expected to do so about three days before the estimated time of arrival.

In Victoria a 21-gun salute was fired by the 5th B.C. Independent Medium Battery, RCA, at noon from the Causeway marking the anniversary.

'Clean Up Mission' Under Way in Algeria

ALGIERS (Reuters) — Three trouble-shooting ministers of President de Gaulle's shuffled cabinet arrived here by air today on a "cleanup" mission.

A few hours earlier, French authorities seized shipments of the Paris newspaper, Paris-Jour and five French political weeklies.

Officials said the newspapers were seized on arrival to keep Algeria calm, following the collapse of a rightwing settlers' uprising Monday. Despite rigid censorship of the local press, Algiers newspapers today were permitted to report the arrest and imprisonment of Dr. Bernard Lefevre, head of a neo-Fascist movement banned by authorities two days ago. He was accused in court Friday of acts against the internal security of the state.

Warrants for further arrests were reported as supporters of the abortive settlers' revolt nervously awaited the recommendations of the "cleanup" mission from Paris.

A FRIENDLY GHOST

Margaret Gave the Sign

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — A man and his opera singer daughter today reported they are sharing their home with a friendly ghost named Margaret.

Rev. Donald Rettick and his daughter, Justine, said the ghost has been in the vicarage for 12 years.

"It is no poltergeist who hurks things around the house," said the vicar. "We have almost come to regard Margaret as a friend of the family."

His daughter said she and some friends decided to test the ghost. They turned on a radiator, lit two candles and placed a bowl of freshly-picked roses on a table.

Miss Rettick called out: "If you are present, Margaret, give us a sign."

She said: "The ghost gave a sign all right. The candles went out, the radiator went off and every petal fell from the roses."

LONE SURVIVOR DIES IN BOLIVIA AIR CRASH

LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP)—The death toll in Bolivia's worst aviation disaster stood at 59 today as the lone survivor succumbed to injuries.

Jenny Escobar, two-year-old Bolivian child, was found alive when rescuers reached the wreckage Friday. The child died several hours later while being taken to a hospital. (Earlier it had been reported that 60 had been killed).

IN THE HOUSE WITH Norman Cribbens

The ancient cry of "Mr. Speaker, there's a stranger in the gallery!" enlivened a dull session of the legislature Friday afternoon.

CCF Leader Bob Strachan revived this old parliamentary custom when he spotted Tom Uphill, the 86-year-old "daddy" of the House, entering the ladies' gallery.

There is a parliamentary rule that members must not enter the galleries (ladies' or otherwise) while the House is sitting, and had he stayed, Mr. Uphill could have been constitutionally removed by the sergeant-at-arms.

But Mr. Uphill did not stay. After giving the ladies a quick smile of welcome, the veteran member withdrew from the gallery and returned to the floor of the House.

Mr. Strachan, of course, was having a bit of fun with an old custom. And Mr. Uphill played the same kind of joke a few years ago when he looked up at the Speaker and said:

"Mr. Stranger, there is a speaker in the gallery!"

As I've said, it was a dull day in contrast with the bright sunshine without, and we were grateful both to Mr. Uphill and the lively Leo Nimsick (CCF, Cranbrook) for their efforts to relieve the tedium.

Mr. Nimsick, wearing a bright red carnation in his button-hole, was determined to provoke the government members and, in anticipation of an election before the next session, he told them:

"It has been nice knowing you and I wish you all success in your future endeavors."

He noted that the government had said there would be "no give-away" in the Wenner-Gren development up north; then added:

"I have no doubt they said that when Vancouver Island was handed over to the Hudson's Bay Company."

When Mr. Uphill rose to speak in the throne speech debate, a colleague pushed the goose-necked microphone towards him. Mr. Uphill smiled at the instrument and said: "Hello, how are you?"

He joked about his 40 years in the legislature (as the member for Fernie) and mentioned that I had sent his story to a British newspaper.

The newspaper replied: "Where was Mr. Uphill born? Give town, street and number."

"Well," he said, "I was born near Bristol but, as for the street, I don't think we had any in those days."

Mr. Uphill went on to speak of an old friend who was sentenced to two years "at the university," quickly correcting this to penitentiary.

And this led him into his favorite theme—that those who work for the good of their fellow men are often despised at the time and glorified after they are dead.

In the voice of a preacher he cried: "The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof . . . we are living in a land that is flowing with milk and honey, and we are the only nation that goes short in the midst of plenty."

In the public galleries were 15 students from Cranbrook and Kimberley who are now studying at Victoria College. They are not here by courtesy of the B.C. Electric, so you needn't worry about your light bill going up," joked Mr. Nimsick.

Among the students was Mr. Nimsick's 17-year-old daughter, Lynette, who is also a ballet dancer and a pupil of Miss Wynne Shaw in Victoria.

Randolph Harding, the CCF member for Kaslo-Slocan, welcomed two young people from his home riding—Walter Bell and Tom Krall.

Mr. Uphill played host to Miss Ida Marie Littler from Fernie.

So it wasn't such a bad day after all.

FINCH DESCRIBES DEATH

Jurors in Tears Over Testimony

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Dr. R. Bernard Finch, his voice choked with emotion, testified at his murder trial Friday that his wife's dying words were:

"Take care of the kids." The children are Patty, 12, the wife's daughter by a previous marriage, and Raymond Jr., her son by Finch.

Moments before she died, said Finch, Barbara Jean Finch begged for forgiveness. He said he held her head as she died of a gunshot wound he said she suffered when a pistol discharged as he tried to throw it away.

He said he saw her crumple to the lawn near her suburban home, ran to her, took her hand and asked her: "What is it, Barbara?"

Finch, pausing frequently, almost sobbing, went on: "She opened her mouth a couple of times and then said very softly, 'I'm sorry. I should have listened.'"

The wealthy surgeon is charged with the murder of his wife last July 18.

Several women jurors cried as Finch spoke. The doctor fought to control his emotions. After he ended his story, the court recessed until Monday.

Finch had told dramatically of a violent struggle for the gun. At one point he said: "I grabbed the gun, yanked it away from her and then I hit her hard."

In the climactic testimony of his three days on the witness stand, the central figure in the sensational murder trial said he and his wife wrestled madly as she screamed, kicked him and tried to point the weapon in his face.

Earlier, Finch answered two major accusations, in the

B.C. Urged to Start World Cancer Fund

British Columbia should institute a world-wide cancer research fund which could be a common meeting ground for humanity with both eastern and western ideologies, Dan Campbell (SC-Comox) said in the legislature Friday.

Mr. Campbell said British Columbia should start the fund with a $25,000 donation.

He said the province should take the next east-west summit meeting and matching donations should be asked of every province and every state in the U.S., then the whole amount should be matched by Communist countries.

"I would like to see the government of this province offer to place $25,000 toward the start of a worldwide cancer

Patronage Charges Spark Clash

A statement by Leo Nimsick (CCF-Cranbrook) that the B.C. government gives jobs to its "friends" drew a heated protest from Education Minister Leslie Peterson in the legislature Friday.

"They say there is no patronage but I know of cases where this government has looked after its friends," Mr. Nimsick declared.

"I object," exclaimed Mr. Peterson rising to his feet. "I suggest that the member should be more specific if he wants to make accusations of that kind."

Mr. Nimsick: "I can give him (the minister) a few names if he wants them."

At this point Deputy Speaker Alex Matthews (SC-Vancouver Centre) pounded the desk with his gavel and told Mr. Nimsick to proceed with his speech.

(In the corridors afterwards Mr. Nimsick intimated that he would raise the matter again later in the session.)

He went on to say that he did not think the B.C. Power Commission, with two members of the cabinet sitting in on its discussions, could be "totally free from political influence."

"If this is true of the Power Commission, are we going to find the same thing with the Compensation Board, the Liquor Control Board and the Public Utilities Commission?" Mr. Nimsick asked.

HONG KONG (AP)—Communist China announced today that a Chinese correspondent for United Press International has been sentenced to one year in prison on an espionage charge.

A Red Chinese news agency report said 25-year-old Yim Yuen-lo, known as Bill Yim, was sentenced Jan. 31 by the Canton people's municipal court.

Sled Dogs Threatened

THE PAS, Man. (CP)—A deadly liver infection threatens to kill off the sled dogs population at two remote northern Manitoba communities—virtually wiping out the livelihood of more than 1,000 Indian and Metis residents.

The provincial government should expropriate Elk River Timber and Tahsis Company logging roads connecting the Campbell River area with the west coast of the Island, Dan Campbell (SC-Comox) said in the legislature Friday.

He charged Elk River Timber with blocking the development of the northern part of the Island, even to the extent of denying use of the road to milk delivery from Courtenay to Gold River logging community.

"This company seems unwilling to enter sensible negotiations with people who must go to the west coast . . . basic access lines along geographic routes must remain in the hands of the crown," he said.

If development of the north is to come about, "the government of this province must consider expropriation of this access route in the name of the crown."

He called on the government to establish a definite target date for starting the proposed northern road extension to Port Hardy in the northern tip of the Island. He was irked that there was

Wenner-Gren Linked To U.S. Kaiser Deal

The B.C. government "knowingly or unknowingly" is championing the cause of private power in the United States, Leo Nimsick (CCF-Cranbrook) told the legislature Friday.

"Undoubtedly," he declared, "this hinges on the hope that they will be able to export power to the United States."

He believed that, after a huge investment had been made in the Peace River private power development project, and there was surplus power, the federal and provincial governments would "give in" to exporting power—especially when the investors would be threatened with loss of their investment.

Speaking in the throne speech debate, Mr. Nimsick said that Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston had shown Wednesday a preference for development of the Peace River over the Columbia River project.

"Threading all through his arguments, he was preparing the way for the Columbia to be a step by step development over a long period of time, as the province could afford it."

"This would give the Peace River development a chance to go ahead and supply power in the meantime and it is my opinion there is more to this than meets the eye."

"There has been a very definite battle going on in the northwestern United States between public power and private power."

"It has been quite bitter at times and it seems to me there is a definite connection between the private power of the States, the Kaiser deal on the Columbia, and the Wenner-Gren deal in the north."

Mr. Nimsick said Attorney General Robert Bonner had "placed another seed of fear to hinder the Columbia development" when he said "we may be doing a disservice by developing cheap power for the U.S."

PEACE PIPE

VANCOUVER—Highways Minister Gagliardi said Friday that he would meet with an Indian chief who is angry about a department offer for land wanted for the Trans-Canada Highway.

"Big white father in the stone teepee doesn't push anybody around," Mr. Gagliardi told reporters.

"I haven't got enough hair left to be scalped by any Indians on the warpath, and I'm not looking for any big wow."

The minister was commenting in a telephone interview on the charge of Chief Dennis Peters that the highways department is trying to buy 5.12 acres of land on the Shikam Indian Reserve near Hope, 80 miles east of Vancouver, for too low a price.

POWER CREW TAKES RAP IN WIRE FIRE

(From Duncan Bureau) A B.C. Power Commission crew took the blame for a false alarm which sounded at the Duncan volunteer fire department fire hall at 2 p.m. Friday.

The alarm sounded when the crew, changing wiring from an old pole to a new one at the corner of Kenneth Street and Canada Avenue, dropped a wire on the connection from the telephone company building to the fire hall.

"We must have grounded it," a lineman said as volunteer firemen raced to the fire hall.

Driver Fined $75 in Death Of Pedestrian

Motorist Joseph Lamoureux, 30, of 3214 Wascana, driver of a car in collision with three pedestrians at Burnside and Harriet Dec. 27, was fined $75 when he pleaded guilty in city police court Friday to careless driving.

One of the pedestrians, Mrs. Annie Clarke, 69, of 3166 Davin, died in hospital as a result of injuries.

Police said there was no evidence of criminal neglect in the driving, only the fact that the accused failed to see the pedestrians until too late.

"I must consider the quality and nature of the driving rather than the tragic consequences," Magistrate William Ostler said.

Lamoureux was remanded for a probation report on the matter of driver's licence suspension.

Mass Pickets Banned

PORTLAND (AP)—Mayor Terry Schunk Friday banned mass picketing in the city's three-month-old newspaper strike and said if it occurs arrests could result.

Charles Stars In Arsenal Win

LONDON (AP)—Mel Charles, Arsenal centre-forward, today led the famous London team to a 5-2 victory over Blackburn Rovers—its first home win in the English Soccer League for three months.

It was a revival that thousands of Londoners had been awaiting. Arsenal, a goal down after five minutes, came back fighting. Charles scored twice in the first half and again after the interval.

There are 22 teams in the First Division and the win moved Arsenal into a midway position with 26 points—seven better than the bottom team, Luton.

Meanwhile, Tottenham Hotspurs, star team of the season, tied 1-1 against a strong Preston squad and remained on top of the standings with a three-point edge over Burnley. The Spurs have 39 points and Burnley, who defeated Newcastle United 2-1, have 36.

Halfback Dave Mackay shot in a free kick to give Tottenham the lead over championship-challenging Preston early in the second half. The Spurs held to that lead until two minutes from the end. Then they side right Tommy Thompson got the equalizer for Preston. Centre-forward Eddie Pointer scored in the 65th minute for Burnley's 2-1 victory over Newcastle.

MATTHEWS BACK

Stanley Matthews, the 45-year-old wizard of English soccer for more than two decades, came back to the game today after a nine-week absence and helped Blackburn to a 1-1 tie against Wolverhampton.

The Wolves, who meet Barcelona in a European Cup quarter-final match Feb. 10, now are third in the standings with 34 points—five behind Tottenham.

Aston Villa stayed on top of the Second Division standings with a thumping 4-0 victory over Huddersfield. Villa now has 44 points, second place Cardiff 42 and Rotherham 37. Rotherham and Cardiff tied 2-2 today.

'The Promoter' Just Can't Stop

This is part two in the story of E. P. Taylor, one of Canada's most famous businessmen and the main character in the series based on the book, "The Flame of Power" by Peter C. Newman. The series is published by Longmans, Green and Company, Toronto.

By PETER C. NEWMAN

E. P. Taylor did not inherit wealth, nor has he become the richest Canadian as many think. Economists who have studied his holdings place his personal fortune at about $30 million.

That's far below the two men generally considered to be Canada's wealthiest—John D. W. Brown, who owns nearly all the stock in his family's retailing empire; and Samuel Bronfman, the head of Montreal's huge Distillers Corporation-Seagrams Ltd., which through subsidiaries sells more than $2 million worth of liquor a day.

Taylor's father, Lt. Col. Plunket Bouchier Taylor, was financially comfortable, but at his death in 1944 he left his son exactly $12,225 from an estate of $147,927. He had been second-in-command of Canada's 22nd Battalion in the First World War and later managed the Bank Street branch of the Bank of Ottawa, founded and controlled by Charles Magee, his father-in-law.

Another of Magee's investments was the local Brading Breweries, which survived the period of Ontario prohibition during the twenties by selling its products across the river to Hull, Quebec.

Young Eddie attended Ashbury College in Ottawa, then, following a summer interlude as a 25-cent-an-hour apprentice tool grinder at the Ottawa Car Co., enrolled in McGill University's mechanical engineering course. Although he has since found his scientific training useful in appraising companies, when Taylor graduated in 1922 at the age of 21, he began immediately to apply his promotional rather than technical talents.

His initial ventures were the Yellow Bus Co. and Red Line Taxi, which he established with Lawrence Hart, now a Montreal business man. Hart and Taylor themselves drove trucks, which they had converted to buses, the five miles between Ottawa and Westboro. The bus line didn't last long but the taxi company was profitably sold.

Taylor then went to work for his father in the investment business. At the same time his grandfather named him a director of his brewery. In 1927 he married Winifred Thornton Duquid, whose father had been in charge of Canada's shipbuilding program during the First World War.

How He Took Over the Breweries

Out of the Brading treasury, Taylor bought for $10,000 plus $1 million worth of Brading stock—the nearly bankrupt Kuntz brewery at Welland, Ont.

There were 36 breweries in Ontario competing for $17 million annual sales with such wasteful vigor that only six of them were able to earn a minimum investment return.

Taylor assembled all available financial facts about the Ontario breweries, then calculated how individual circumstances could be used to obtain their control.

Instead of cash, he planned to trade pieces of paper for the properties by issuing

Bought Mortgage—Then Foreclosed

During the next two and a half decades Taylor acquired 23 rival breweries, eventually assembling an 11 million barrel brewing capacity. He liquidated a dozen of the more inefficient and reduced the brands from 150 to nine. Some breweries, like the failing Riverside, Hofer and Old Comrades, were brought in by buying into their mortgages; then foreclosing. Control in others, like the large Cosgrave plant, was gained by quiet stock purchases up to one-third control, followed by an offer to trade shares for the balance. O'Keefe's, the largest single acquisition, cost the Taylor syndicate $2,074,000, raised largely in England by floating more of the holding company's bonds.

He Was 'Spotted' by Beaverbrook

Under Taylor's direction more than $1 billion worth of Canadian goods were sold in the U.S., helping to balance Canada's enormous trade deficit.

Taylor's success in this difficult job came to the notice of Lord Beaverbrook, who recommended him to Winston Churchill as head of the new British Supply Council, formed to handle the more than $50 million worth of annual British buying in the U.S. and Canada.

The great concentrating instrument of Taylor's financial domain is Argus Corporation. Established in 1945 and modelled after New York financier Floyd Odlum's Atlas Corp., Argus has introduced a new business medium to Canada.

He Wins Races—on His Own Tracks

Taylor's main relaxation is horse racing. In the past decade, eight Taylor-bred horses have captured the King's Plate five under his own silks.

Taylor's $10 million farms at Oshawa and near Toronto have a 100-man payroll and an $800,000 annual turnover. He makes no money on his equestrian subsidiaries but doesn't lose any either.

As president and largest shareholder of the Jockey Club Ltd., Taylor runs tracks that take in more than 90 million betting dollars annually. The frenzies that move to action men of Taylor's calibre are always difficult to define. In Taylor's case it may simply be a matter of momentum

Shares in His Newly-Formed

Brewing Corp. of Ontario. On Oct. 9, 1930, the Brewing Corp. of Ontario became the Brewing Corp. of Canada, assuming ownership of seven small plants. The name was changed to Canadian Breweries Ltd. on April 21, 1937, with Taylor, operating out of a cramped office in Toronto's Trust & Guaranty Building on Bay St., as general manager.

Within 10 months Taylor reported to the company's 7,000 shareholders that he had gained control of ten breweries and a soft-drink firm. Although the brewing complex was running at only 16 per cent of capacity in 1934, four years later it showed its first profit of $168,000.

Argus Buys Enough Equity stock for effective control, but without tying up the excessive amounts of capital that would be needed to get absolute majority control. Argus has a $117,000,000 portfolio, so distributed that the company controls the destiny of industrial assets worth nearly $1,000,000,000.

Taylor's senior partners in Argus are Eric Phillips, who made his first fortune manufacturing glass in Oshawa; Wallace McCutcheon, a maths and physics graduate who was deputy chairman of Canada's Wartime Prices and Trade Board; and John A. McDougald, a graduate of Dominion Securities Ltd.

U.S. to Blame for Failure Of Atom Test Ban Talks?

WASHINGTON (CP) — Evidence before the United States Congress indicates that the U.S. and not Russia may be mainly responsible for a near-collapse in the current East-West negotiations for a permanent ban on atomic tests.

President Eisenhower's own scientific advisers members of a technical group who negotiated with the Soviet last year—agreed before a Senate subcommittee on disarmament this week that Russia sincerely wants a tests-ban pact.

And Russia seems willing to accept a certain degree of inspection and control to police the ban, with a limitation on the number of foreign inspections on Russian soil.

WANTS COMPLETE BAN

But Russia wants a complete ban on explosions above and below ground. The U.S., on the other hand, seems to favor a partial ban, excluding underground tests on the basis of technical studies showing that underground blasts can be muffled and therefore are difficult to detect.

The scientists, however, seem to suggest the importance of the U.S. argument is not as great as some American diplomats have maintained. To muffle an explosion equivalent of 50,000 tons of TNT—this would be a relatively small bomb compared with missile warheads—would require a hole dug a half-mile down in some salty area.

How big a hole? About the size of two city blocks, said the scientists, Dr. James B. Fisk and Dr. Wolfgang K. M. Panofsky. The cost? Between $10,000,000 and $30,000,000. And how long would it take to dig it? Between two and four years, depending on how much rock the diggers encountered.

NEGATIVE APPROACH

Senator Hubert M. Humphrey, subcommittee chairman who aspires to lead the Democrats in the next presidential election, asked why the government had been so eager to emphasize the difficulties of detecting underground explosions and had not been so eager to spend money on improving detection devices.

The U.S. government, by its actions, was running the risk of a breakdown in negotiations and a piling up of world-wide cynicism against the U.S.

Panofsky said he and other American negotiators had taken the "proper" position at Geneva talks with their Russian counterparts last year. The hands of the U.S. scientists were clean.

And yet, he added, he could not help agreeing with Humphrey that the government had been "disturbingly slow" in boosting research on detection improvements. This does not mean research would necessarily prove successful, "but I share your concern in the lack of rapid enthusiastic progress in this field."

MR. K READY FOR TREATY 'AT ANY TIME'

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet press has published a statement by Nikita Khrushchev that he is ready to sign at any time a treaty ending nuclear tests for all time, with "appropriate controls."

The Soviet premier said the system of control recommended in 1958 by East-West experts at Geneva was "perfectly acceptable" as a basis for concluding an agreement. Khrushchev has said many times he is willing to sign a ban with controls he considers appropriate, but East and West ideas of adequate controls do not jibe. The West already contends that the 1958 experts' recommendations are outdated by the discovery of new techniques for carrying out underground tests.

Committee to Probe Toll Bridge Hassle

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA—Parliament Friday launched an investigation, touched with political implications and the possibility of criminal charges into toll collections at two federal bridges in the Montreal area.

Upshot of a long and politically-tinged hassle in the Commons was that its standing committee on railways will look into collections at the Jacques Cartier and Victoria bridges spanning the St. Lawrence River.

The Jacques Cartier sprang into the news last fall when it was discovered toll revenue soared after an automatic collection system replaced manual operation. No evidence of thievery was found.

Friday, Transport Minister Hees proposed a committee investigation into the Jacques Cartier and later acceded to a suggestion of Lionel Chevrier (L-Montreal Laurier) that the Victoria be included.

Mr. Chevrier was transport minister under the Liberals, and during a scrap over the inquiry proposal the present minister accused the former one of being worried about an investigation.

On the other hand, Mr. Chevrier said he would prefer a judicial inquiry and declared a House committee might "browbeat" witnesses as had been done by the public accounts committee in 1958 in delving into Liberal spending on the $18,000,000 federal printing bureau in nearby Hull, Que.

Mr. Hees said investigations up to now, as reported to him, have shown nothing upon which criminal charges could be based. Sole purpose of the proposed inquiry was to "air the whole matter."

If the committee should turn up evidence indicating any criminal charges should be laid, he would see to it that they were.

'White-Tie Curtain'

J. W. Pickersgill asked whether white tie and tails is a new form of government means test.

He made the remark after Citizenship Minister Fairclough said the white-tie arrangements for opening of the new National Gallery here cannot be changed.

H. W. Herridge (CCF-Kootenay West) said there is widespread dissatisfaction with the requirement that those attending the opening wear white tie and tails. He said earlier this regulation is a "white-tie curtain."

Mrs. Fairclough said the arrangements were dictated by the limited space. MPs who didn't have white tie and tails could visit the gallery another time.

"Is this a new form of means test?" asked Mr. Pickersgill.

'Foolish Queries'

Prime Minister Diefenbaker angrily accused the Opposition of wasting the time of the Commons.

He said opposition members were asking "foolish, unnecessary and unjustified" questions of the government during the daily question period.

'Cheap, Chiselling' arbitration of disputes was talked out.

Frank Howard, Skeena, who introduced the bill, accused the government of "rank discrimination against its employees in relation to other types of workers."

Government workers had been treated with "scorn and disdain." They were not getting equality or justice.

The raise turnaround, Mr. Howard said, was "just about as cheap and chiselling as that of any private employer I've ever seen."

It was "administratively immoral" to exploit employee loyalty for political or other reasons. If there should be an election next year, a civil service increase would be forthcoming, with the issue used as a political gimmick.

Farm Aid Rapped

The Opposition fired sharp criticism at the government on its handling of emergency acreage payments to Prairie farmers with grain trapped under early autumn snows.

Hazen Argue, CCF House leader, labelled the program inadequate. J. W. Pickersgill, noting Parliament in its method of meeting the emergency.

Their comments came during debate of a $6,000,000 supplementary spending estimate—the government's forecast of its 50 per cent share of the cost of the federal provincial payments.

SCIENTISTS RAP IKE'S ATOM-SHARING PLAN

'Doom Us to Nuclear War'

CHICAGO (AP) — A group of American scientists says the presidential proposal for formal sharing of atomic weapons to its Allies would "virtually doom us to the ultimate calamity of nuclear war."

The executive committee of the Federation of American scientists Friday condemned the presidential proposal as "the most dangerous type of short-sighted opportunism."

The proposal would be "catastrophically folly," a statement said. Once this was done, there could be no hope of preventing nuclear war.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 6, 1960

The Columbia First

MR. RAY WILLISTON, MEMBER for Fort George, minister of lands and forests whose department includes the water rights branch, and commissioner for the B.C. Hydro, has reviewed the power situation in British Columbia.

He brought the Legislature up to date on negotiations for Columbia River development—with considerable emphasis on what financing that project could mean to the credit of this province. He touched in passing upon the Fraser River potential, and he stated that if the Peace River Power and Development Company's plan "is approved and licenses granted, actual work on site preparation and engineering will proceed through the balance of 1960 and 1961."

In this way the minister has raised the issue of priority in Columbia or Peace development. He has presented a case to show that, given a go-ahead by provincial authorities, the Wenner-Gren interests are prepared to proceed immediately. On the other hand, while reporting on favorable negotiations between Victoria and Ottawa, he says in effect that extended discussions are in prospect before a beginning can be made on the Columbia development.

Priority, of course, is the vital factor in plans for major hydro development in British Columbia. Mr. Williston cites figures to support his argument that the province will need both Peace and Columbia power by 1975. Mr. W. C. Mainwaring, speaking for the private interests promoting the Peace, says that its development will be delayed for years if the Columbia goes ahead first.

Mr. Mainwaring also says that his interests must complete satisfactory arrangements with proposed customers to assure an immediate start—customers in British Columbia.

What does this mean? It means that to assure Peace development the promoters must sew up the market in this province—having been denied export privileges. And while the market may require both

Peace and Columbia by 1975, according to surveys cited by Mr. Williston, there is no assurance that both are needed in the early future—no assurance, in fact, that the market now or in the next few years can justify more than one development.

The customers, of course, will buy where the price is cheapest. Where could cheaper power be acquired than from that supplied through downstream benefits on the Columbia?

Add to this the comment of Dr. Shrum to the American Institute of Electrical Engineers the other day. He told them that Columbia Power should be earmarked for the metropolitan area and Peace power for on-site industries. On-site industries large enough to absorb the Peace potential do not exist in the area concerned—they would have to be developed when power was assured.

These are points which Mr. Williston did not elaborate. Unless he is preserving the potential Peace development as a bargaining counter to speed accord on the Columbia, it is difficult to see how the public interest is served by emphasizing the difficulties, including those of finance, on the Columbia and minimizing them on its privately sponsored rival.

The fact is that British Columbia needs power, cheap power, from the Columbia, needs it first and should throw all its energies into the task of reaching agreement with the United States on that issue.

It is significant that, on the same day, that Mr. Williston made his speech, Senator Neuberger of Oregon predicted in Washington that Canada and the United States would enjoy "early success" in their negotiations on the Columbia.

It is abundantly clear, however, that Mr. Williston and the Bennett government are leaning towards the private Peace project. It is implicit in their every speech. If they succeed in forcing this high-cost power on the public, when an attitude of mutual co-operation with Ottawa will bring in the Columbia at about half the price—voters will undoubtedly call them to account.

The Spendthrifts

THE LATEST OFFICIAL trade figures from Ottawa give support to Bank of Canada Governor James E. Coyne's contention that Canadians as a nation are living beyond their means, and correspondingly weaken Trade Minister Churchill's claim that there is nothing to worry about. Mr. Coyne was referring to capital spending and the overall balance of international payments, but our commodity trade is an important factor.

Last year we imported $475 million worth of goods more than we exported. Since the major part of our trade is carried on with the United States, most of this discrepancy is accounted for by the fact that we bought more from our neighbor than we sold.

The difference, as Mr. Coyne has pointed out, was made up by United States investments in Canada. In other words we borrowed to buy our clothes, oranges, movie films and vacations below the border. The Canadian doesn't seem to be the sober, level-headed fellow he is so often said to be.

The statistics show that in the final quarter of the year, Canada's trade reversed the prevailing trend and exports exceeded imports by some 23 millions. But this move towards solvency did not necessarily mean that we have turned over a new leaf. Our American purchases in the final quarter of 1959 surged to nearly $1 billion—more than $30 millions in excess of the corresponding period in 1958.

The figures show that our exports to the United States last year comprised 61.9 per cent of our total sales abroad, nearly three per cent more than in 1958. Of our total imports, 67.8 per cent came from the United States, one per cent less than the previous year.

Obviously, we remain in a vulnerable position. A change in the United States market can seriously affect our whole export picture; a hold-up in U.S. production—as in steel—is immediately felt throughout our economy. Two-thirds of our import eggs, and about the same proportion of our export eggs, are in one basket. When in addition we run up a debt of half a billion to the basket-holder in one year—to be added to previous billions similarly owed—it begins to seem as though Mr. Coyne's words merit some attention.

Not Even a Herring for Us

TAKE A LOOK AT THE expenditure estimates tabled in Parliament Thursday.

They show provision for construction of married quarters for 100 at the Comox RCAF base at a cost of $700,000 and a combined mess to cost $325,000.

Likewise they disclose a vote of $1,200,000 for married quarters and $75,000 for a chapel at Hoberg, the remote point on the north end of the Island.

The Times Ottawa Bureau reports: "There is no mention in the government's spending program for 1960-61 of a new terminal building or runway extensions at Pat Bay Airport."

By all means, let us, as Canadians, look after our service personnel. They look after us. But from Victoria it's hard to see the sense in spending $700,000 for 100 married quarters at Comox, and $325,000 for a combined mess—which will presumably serve a few hundred service people—and nothing for airport development to serve 150,000 civilians in this community.

Price of Silence

IF YOU LIVE IN CERTAIN communities on this continent, you don't have to listen to a blaring juke box when you slip into a lunch counter for a quiet cup of coffee.

All you have to do, in selected centres, is beat the other person to the slot which accepts your nickel or dime and provides for you the entertainment of the disc you choose. Wanting silence? you can pick a silent record. It revolves on the turntable of the machine without emitting a sound, unless it is an old record and then all you hear is scratches.

This, in its way, is another development of progress which gave us the juke box originally. And the theme seems worth copying.

You'll be paying taxes again this year. Some of those taxes will go to public works. Some of the public works will include extensive boring with mechanical drills.

How about a section in the tax bill, which allows you to select a rubber drill for the money you pay?

The silent record machine has shown the way and some of these conventional drills are almost as bad as some of the popular selections they put in juke boxes nowadays.

Nature Rambles

By FREEMAN KING

THOSE who like a short climb along a well-beaten trail should go to Niagara Canyon at Goldstream.

The falls are at their best now, with a cascade of water dropping more than 100 feet to the pool at the foot, with the spray glistening on the foliage. It is a sight worth going a long way to see.

Along the trail can be seen the hazel shrub (corylus) with its male catkins ready to burst with golden pollen.

In Europe, hedges and wattles are made from the wood of this shrub which is very strong and durable.

Intermingled with the conifers are the red alder trees (alnus rubra) with their mottled twigs showing the new leaf bud springing into life and its catkins already formed.

The bark of this tree was used by the Indians of a past age for making dye to decorate their clothes and mark their faces for ceremonies.

Along the sides of the creek bed are streaks of quartz in which copper can be found. A pocket magnifying glass will show beautiful blue-green crystals.

Up on the high bench above the stream can be seen, if you watch closely, the long-toed salamander (ambystoma macrodactylum), who will be under a rotting log waiting for his prey, some unsuspecting insect who happens along. Out darts the long tongue—and the salamander sits and waits for the next meal. Sighting with protruding eyes this little creature does not often miss its target.

This salamander is terrestrial, except in early spring when it returns to standing water in ponds to breed.

FROM OTTAWA

A Vision of Things Clicking Neatly Into Place Everywhere

ONE of the most overworked phrases in the Ottawa vocabulary is that of "a national policy." It has the sound of grandeur, and the vaguest allusion to a national policy creates in the listener's mind a vision of things clicking neatly into place from Vancouver Island to Newfoundland; everything is identical, everything fits. In practice, a national policy frequently means chaos. Take the misnamed national policy on "roads-to-resources," that formed such a large part of the "vision" so much in evidence in 1957 and 1958. It sounded fine. Each province was to be assisted in constructing roads to hitherto untapped resource areas.

British Columbia seized on the opportunity to have Ottawa pay half the cost of the Stewart-Cassiar road. It was a perfect application of the principle involved. It would provide access to an area high in B.C.'s north country, an area known to be rich in mineral wealth. Federal aid would enable the province to complete this road far sooner than B.C. could afford to do on its own. Alberta, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Ontario also fitted into the pattern. All have vast northern areas that cannot be reached by road transportation. Quebec, though, wouldn't play ball, and still hasn't, and there was the first deviation from the theoretical straight line.

New Brunswick, although the measure of its untapped resources is questionable, got into the act. Nova Scotia didn't really need any roads to resources, so it convinced Ottawa that roads leading to beaches and picnic spots were, in fact roads to resources—tourist resources, and that was stretching it a bit. Newfoundland desperately needs roads of any kind, so there was no argument there.

But the "national policy" had to be played out to the full. Each province had to receive, or be eligible to receive, the same amount of federal money, $7,500,000. So the policy had also to be applied to Prince Edward Island, a speck in the Gulf of St. Lawrence compared to B.C. or Ontario. P.E.I. residents, through the misdirected generosity of the Canadian taxpayers generally, will soon have roads running out of their ears.

The preparatory examination lasted just over a year. At the end of it, 65 were discharged and the rest went on holiday; their bail paid up, waiting to hear the date for the trial proper.

Once again the problem was to find a court big enough to hold the accused, now numbering 91. The Department of Justice decided on a semi-historical monument, a 70-year-old synagogue in Pretoria, with turnip spires which, maybe, seemed appropriately Russian. The trial started on August 1, 1958. A sedate and orderly group of spectators watched from outside the court as "Another slice! ... Wonder what he'll blame it on this time ... the beastly weak tea or the confounded crocuses popping up all over ..."

By TOM GOULD

It must be remembered that a well-thrown potato will carry the full width of the island province.

This never-ending struggle to provide equality for the provinces in most cases ends up as a severe example of discrimination—discrimination against those provinces that have the untapped resource wealth, but are forced to help out the poorer areas of the nation.

A farmer doesn't waste good seed on poor soil, if he has good soil. Now Ottawa is starting to talk about a national policy on hydro-electric energy. Its contribution to the Beechwood power project in the Maritimes, the South Saskatchewan Dam and, soon, the Columbia River, has upset some provinces who have not received such aid.

Why, they ask, should Saskatchewan receive something not available to Manitoba, or Alberta? Alberta in particular poses a problem. The two big utilities there are private-owned. Should Alberta residents kick in for the South Saskatchewan project, and not be eligible for federal relief in their own power costs? Does the fact much of their power comes from thermal plants make any difference?

The federal tax dollar comes out of every Canadian's pocketbook, and every time one area receives special treatment there is bound to be a howl. With Ottawa moving more and more towards direct participation in resource development, the howls of outrage will increase in volume.

The Trans-Canada Highway is another example of the inevitable failure of a national policy. Saskatchewan honored the T.C. agreement, completed its section of the road in good time, and now finds Ottawa extending the agreement time after time, offering increased federal participation in uncompleted sections. No allowance was made for the difficulties of building roads in northern Ontario, as compared with Manitoba or Prince Edward Island.

No allowance was made for the individual provinces' ability to pay their share of the Trans-Canada burden. And the road, years after the scheduled completion day, is still unfinished.

Somewhere along the line, Ottawa will realize that, in all fairness, it will have to take over the full financial burden of such projects as the Trans-Canada Highway. If it finds they are in the national interest. The alternative is to leave everything up to the province or provinces involved.

Inside, the prisoners had room to stretch themselves, there was room for the great heap of exhibits and the array of barristers. The press sat in galleries, as did the spectators. Gloomy court orderlies prepared tea for the judges in an adjoining room, settling in, getting used to the electric plugs.

They would probably make tea in that building for five years, which is the length of time that the trial could conceivably run.

But the first day, the defence counsel served a surprise on the three special judges, the Crown, and the press; and the public.

Mr. L. A. Maisels, QC, rising for a special address, suggested that if justice was to be carried out to the last letter, and seen to be carried out, without fear or favor, two of the judges out of the three should step down immediately.

After his address the court adjourned, and when it reassembled one of the judges, Mr. Justice Ludorf, recused himself. He had acted in a previous case, involving one of the accused, which he had forgotten, but so that justice "might be seen to be done, as well as be done," he recused himself.

Another week's delay, then another judge was found, and the defence returned to the attack. This time Mr. Maisels, ably supported, demanded that the indicted be quashed. It was too general, he said, and any member of the accused could be excused if he wondered, after reading it, "What, exactly, do they allege that I have done?"

The indictment was withdrawn after two and a half months of argument. The accused were divided into two groups and the smaller group, of 30, appeared before the court in January last year on a new and shorter indictment.

This hearing was adjourned in March pending an appeal, resumed in August and adjourned again in November. It was then estimated that the 30 accused had heard more than four and a half million words spoken in argument and evidence.

The other group of 61 appeared on trial again in April last year, and the court found the indictment inadequate. Since then this group has been waiting for alternative charges to be framed.

So the argument proceeds. If the trial continues as planned it will probably last many years, and it will cost (so lawyers guess) at least $200,000. It is not likely to be spectacular. By the second day there were very few spectators in court, although newspaper sales were rising with "Treason" posters. And by the sixth day, seven of the accused were fast asleep, with one actually snoring, within half an hour of the court opening.

OPINION IS SHARPLY DIVIDED

There Is No Knowing What Will Please Our Audiences

By TONY EMERY

RISKY though it is to recommend something unseen, I am glad that I wrote last week's exhortation to view the movie "Animal Farm." It turned out, to be well worth seeing, even if it was a little Disneyified in places; and at least the message came across relatively untouched. I hope that those who saw it and who are unacquainted with Orwell's book will be led now to read it. Opinion seems to be sharply divided about the rest of the program.

A distinguished Victorian who was coming out of the show as I was going in characterized the supporting "shorts" as "a complete waste of time." For others I have talked to the short Polish film "Two Men and a Woman" was one of the most memorable and stimulating they had ever seen.

It just goes to show that the life of the impresario in Victoria is liable to be as empty, British, solitary and dull, since there is no knowing what is going to please our audiences.

That's the first little movie, "Jazz Dance." For instance, I thought this was a most straightforward and honest portrayal of a crowd of young Americans experiencing the not-very-complicated music of Jimmy McPartland and his fellow Chicagoans. There was none of the self-consciousness that is one of the pitfalls of the documentary technique, and the noise, the movement, and the lack of any great emotional depth in the crowd's response were all recorded with some skill.

However, I can imagine the feelings of some elderly citizen exposed to the blast of this music for the first time. I've been listening to Pee Wee Russell since I was 15, and I still find that rasping clarinet ungrateful to my ears, so I can sympathize with the uninitiated.

Sufferers clapping their poulitied ears must derive what comfort they can from my assurance that they were lucky that the film wasn't made at the old Savoy Ballroom, with Chick Webb and Jimmy Lunceford blasting away at everybody at once.

Surely, though, the animated cartoon version of Poe's "The Tell-Tale Heart" was a little masterpiece. The drawing was incisive, the animation bold and imaginative, and the narration by James Mason beyond criticism. And who could resist the appeal of the little colored cartoon which told with such charm and humor the well-known fable of the Madonna and the juggler who became a monk?

It was the Polish film that aroused the greatest discussion, however, and which will continue to exercise our coffee house intellectuals for some time to come. If you didn't see this little gem, either when it was shown at the Vancouver Festival or here, let me give you a brief summary of it.

It opens with a shot of wide, Baltic foreshore. Out to sea a bulky object can be discerned which proves, as it nears the beach, to be a large old-fashioned wardrobe in charge of two men. They emerge on to the sand, wring out their clothes, and dance a little dance of joy before picking up their burden and carrying it, carefully away.

In the town they are rejected when they attempt to get on a streetcar; they are rebuffed when they seek lodging in a hotel, although men carrying the more conventional suitcase have no difficulty in getting a room. They are not allowed into a restaurant, which apparently has no scruples about letting in a large dog with its owner.

A girl looks at them with frank invitation to which they respond with old-world courtesy, but she will not wait while they go back for their wardrobe. They are beaten up by a gang of young thugs who are torturing a kitten and in the struggle the wardrobe, already battered, incurs more damage. They are jeered at by another pair of youths one of whom is busy picking the other's pocket.

Resting in a vast dump of empty barrels, they are chased off by a policeman. They return to the seashore, passing what looks remarkably like an act of murder, and return to the sea from whence they came. At the water's edge a small boy has made a hundred sandcastles which they are careful not to harm as they walk slowly out to sea, still bearing their incongruous burden.

Not a word is spoken at any time; the soundtrack carries only a haunting little clarinet tune with rhythm accompaniment; the photography is the work of a consummate artist. But what, you could hear people saying, what does it all mean?

It seems to me that the wardrobe stands for the old-fashioned virtues of humanity and kindness and decency, the moral code which is a considerable encumbrance to anyone who wants to get on in a hasty, cruel, selfish, violent world where material gain and self-indulgence are the only goals. My key will unlock everything except the little sense of joy at the beginning of the movie, and I'm working on that.

The only puzzle to me is that this little anti-materialist poem should have come out of a country now dominated by Marxism, the most materialistic of all contemporary religions.

ART IN REVIEW

By MONCRIEFF WILLIAMSON

National Gallery Service Extends Art Education

Last week, Philip James, OBE, lectured at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria, visiting this city under the auspices of the National Gallery of Canada. This coming Monday, Alan Jarvis, until recently Director of the National Gallery, delivers at the Art Gallery a lecture entitled "Is Art Really Necessary?"

Mr. Jarvis, who will be followed on Feb. 17 by Ernest Mundt and on Feb. 23 by Clement Greenburg, from San Francisco and New York respectively, delivers his lecture under the sponsorship of the Canada Council.

So it is that in less than four weeks Victorians are privileged to hear four diverse speakers, each an expert, three of whom are united under the banner of Art and Human Values, which is the unifying theme of the Canada Council tour.

And if Messrs. Jarvis, Mundt and Greenburg talk as well and as authoritatively as Mr. James, then those attending the lecture series can consider themselves fortunate.

I would like, at this point, to add a rider to the many fine tributes paid to Mr. James who was for so many years the Director of the Visual Arts for the Arts Council of Great Britain, and about whom I have written not only in this column but elsewhere.

I have just been reading a report on a recent BBC television series compiled by Mr. Frank Blackaby and devoted to facts and figures. These particular figures, quite amazing, I think, concern the British public and the arts. Quote: For every 10 people who visited the Tate and National Galleries in 1958, now there are 17.

Substantial Rise

During the Royal Academy's Summer Exhibition in 1938, 274 paintings were sold for the average price of 43 guineas; while in 1958, 674 paintings were sold at approximately 70 guineas each.

The same applies to prints and books on art which have both seen a substantial rise in sales.

An additional point of interest concerns how the British taxpayer supports the arts, via State patronage.

Before the war the average adult contributed 8 cents a year in taxes to support art. Since the war, the taxpayer pays annually 29 cents for museums and galleries; 14 cents for historic monuments; 12 cents for the Arts Council; 6 cents for other art galleries and, in 1958, 12 cents extra for the works of art accepted by the State in payment of death duties. This makes an approximate total of 32 cents now, compared with 22 cents before the war.

The sting, as usual, comes in the tail, when it has been demonstrated that from every $4 which the Arts Council receives, for the support of the arts, only 18 cents goes to wards painting.

All I can do at this point is to declare that while he was in office, Mr. James spent his 18 cents with considerable acumen.

I had awaited with some eagerness the arrival of the National Gallery's exhibition of Canadian Portraits of the 18th and 19th Centuries.

My disappointment in the current display, on view at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria (till Feb. 25), is partly based on the fact that many of our finest Canadian portraits of these periods are in the National Gallery's own collection.

As they move to their new building on the 25th of this month, it was not found possible to allow for their inclusion in this rather dull display. Even my favorite Canadian portrait painter, Antoine Plamondon is weakly represented by a half-dozen or so insipid canvases, the strongest

I feel it might have been advisable to have delayed the preparation of this circulating exhibition until such time as National Gallery's collection could have been made available.

I prefer the selection of prints from 'Victoria's own permanent collection' which are displayed in the adjacent room.

Here we can see for the first time works being collected through the Florence-Scott Memorial Fund and also works recently presented to the Gallery by Mr. John O'Grady, Mrs. Harold Webster and Mrs. P. S. Widdup.

Mrs. Widdup's gift of a colored woodcut "At the Beach" by the Japanese artist Tadashi Nakayama is a work of singular delight and interest.

APPOINTED adjudicator for the British Columbia Regional competition of the Dominion Drama Festival, is James E. Dean of Toronto. He is one of a team of eight Canadians who will judge regional festivals and select winners for the final festival to be held in Vancouver in May. B.C. Regional will be held in Victoria at Oak Bay Junior High School March 21-26.

Announcement of six plays to be presented is expected this weekend. There were 16 entries from all parts of the province.

TOGETHER AGAIN—Two Theatre Guild stars of last season's comedy success, "The Matchmaker," Helen Peaker and Clifford Clarke. This time it's "The Rainmaker." Opening date, Saturday, Feb. 13.

Training Talent Creates 'Rainmaker'

A highly experienced cast working under a new but knowledgeable director, has created "The Rainmaker," the Victoria Theatre Guild production which opens next Saturday at Langham Court Theatre.

Locale of the drama is quite a change for guild audiences; the play being set in the drought-ridden American Midwest.

Victor Mitchell, who studied drama at University of British Columbia where he worked with the Players' Club, and has since spent three years observing and working in the theatre abroad, directs this piece.

Among the lead players, aside from Cliff Clarke, who will be remembered as "Toad" and Cornelius Hackl, one of the apprentices in "The Matchmaker," and Helen Peaker who gave a vivid comedy performance in the latter play's title role, is Jim Dalmage who has studied drama at the University of Saskatchewan and the Banff School of Fine Arts. He was director of the festival winning entry, "Hands Across the Sea."

There is also Gerald Guest, an outstanding member of the city's acting fraternity, Alan C. Robertson, who has played with the Gilbert and Sullivan Society and was lighting and stage manager at the York Theatre, and Ralph Kendall, who is a newcomer.

Mr. Kendall was a member of The Proscenium Players, a well-known group in Leeds, England, and received a bronze medal as outstanding male actor at the Harrogate Festival.

A WRITER'S DIARY

By ROBERTSON DAVIES

There is a tender poetry in cookery books which I cannot resist. Without aspiring to the awesome title of gourmet, I agree with Dr. Johnson that "he who does not mind his belly will hardly mind anything else." Of course, we all mind our bellies these days, in one way or another.

Either we mind them in Johnson's way, which is to feed them with proper respect, or we mind them by reading books about diet, which explains to us how we can lose two and a half pounds a week by insulting our organisms with whatever happens to be the latest fad.

Diet books are gloomy reading, and they are usually offensive to literary taste, as well. They are written either in the evangelical strain which used to appear in books about total abstinence, or else they are jocose, and address the reader as Mr. Fat-Prone.

They are written by moderate men, of moderate intelligence, for people who like moderation. Give me a good cookery book, any day.

One which will put pounds on you, merely by the act of reading it, is "The Good Fare."

It is a book of English food, it is true, ranging from the unappetizing to the disgusting; some of the most squalid and bowel-shattering meals I have ever eaten were in English inns, and on English trains.

But not all English cooks are descendants of Alfred the Great; in private houses wonderful things are likely to appear on the table, beautifully imagined and made with tender care.

She writes with gusto of English food, and this may seem strange to those who believe the widespread myth

Loving Nurture Necessary

Care is the quality which Miss Parry stresses over and over again. The recipe is only half the story when making Madeira Cake, or that almost forgotten delicacy, seedcake; the cook must first of all have in her mind a noble conception of what she is proposing to make, and then she must watch, must hover, must brood, to see that it comes out as imagined.

The results are splendid, in their way. They are not as delicate as French dishes, and they are certainly not thinning. But for people living a country life they have a special, deeply satisfying perfection.

Miss Parry. I call her that because I once knew a wonderful Welsh cook called Mrs. Parry, and the name has magic for me — not only gives recipes phrased in North American terms, but she also writes about the dishes, describing what they should look like, and the effects they are capable of producing in appreciative eaters.

You will not, I think, want to eat whole meals prepared from her book. Those would be for men who spent the day supervising a big farm, on horseback, or for women who think nothing of an eight-mile walk. But a few of these dishes, added to the repertoire of any good North American cook, would further enchain her to her family and guests.

Sacrilege

Take savouries, for instance — when did you last eat a savoury? Was it a real savoury, or a nasty canapé? Was it, perhaps, a deliquescent prune, unnaturally mated to a piece of lukewarm bacon with a toothpick? Such a goblet is not a savoury, but an unnatural vice expressed in terms of food. That prune ought to be an oyster, and piping hot.

One of the best of savouries is a Welsh rarebit, and I am glad to see that Miss Parry includes the art in her recipe, which distinguishes a noble dish from a horrid cheese goo.

That is where the value of her book lies; she restores the vital elements in recipes which have been debauched by starchy cooks. She insists also on the meat in mince meat, without which it becomes a mockery of apples and raisins. She writes well of fools. That island, comes out Feb. 9 means, of course, the edible Denominations — all large kind, made of gooseberries size 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100. All show and not the inassimilable kind who occasionally turn up at unlucky dinner-parties.

She gives a good recipe for Maids of Honor, those frail virgins whom it is a pleasant duty to ruin. She tells how to make such simple, but not easy, dishes as Summer Pudding, and Shepherd's Pie. She puts forward eminently sensible views about cheeses, which she divides into Classic and Romantic.

All that she says is excellent common sense, enlivened by a warm enthusiasm for good fare.

Not for Mr. Fat-Prone? Well, he must make his decision as to whether he intends to eat a comparatively small amount of what he likes, or whether he will gorge himself on gelatin and cucumbers.

STAMP CORNER

By REG. NAIRNE

NEW ISSUE NOTES: Antigua on Jan. 1 issued two stamps to mark its new constitution. These were made by over-printing the current 3c and 12c stamps "Commemoration Antigua Constitution 1960," the former in red and the latter in black.

Ceylon has also brought out a commemorative 10c stamp to honor the Institution of Pirivena-University. It is printed in Holland, in blue and orange, by the photographic process.

The new Cyprus Republic stamps mentioned recently in this column — the regular issue, overprinted on the current series, and the special commemorative set of three showing map of the island, will both appear March 19.

The Gilbert & Ellice "diamond jubilee of the discovery of phosphate issue" (2d, 2½d, and 5s) will appear in May, the stamps showing scenes in connection with the industry.

The 2½d features the lump of rock which 60 years ago led to the finding of the tremendously rich deposits on Ocean Island, one of the group. It was picked up by a sailor in 1900, who, attracted by its unusual appearance, took it back to his shipping office in Sydney. It was used there for some time as a door-stop. Finally an employee of the government, who had some knowledge of geology had it analyzed. It turned out to be almost pure phosphate.

The Malta set commemorates the 100th anniversary of the shipwreck of St. Paul on that island, comes out Feb. 9 means, of course, the edible Denominations — all large kind, made of gooseberries size 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100. Young Author's Wisdom Widens Reader's Horizon

THE CHAINS OF LOVE, by Zoe Oldenbourg.

McClelland & Stewart, $5.

(Reviewed by Joan Mason Hurley)

This French novel is entirely different from anything that usually comes in our way. The author says of one of her characters that he "read a great deal, or rather re-read, since he hadn't the courage to make any intellectual effort."

I found a definite intellectual effort was necessary to read this book, but one's horizons are broadened in doing so.

Zoe Oldenbourg is a brilliant young French writer and winner of several European literary awards for previous books.

I would find fault with her American translator, who has used too much idiomatic American to retain the flavor of Paris. He has also changed the original title, Les Irreductibles, to "The Chains of Love," which was extremely apposite, to the commonplace and humdrum one of "The Chains of Love."

This title, guaranteed to attract the purchaser of cheap paperbacks, in no way conveys the feeling or mood of the book.

It is, however, primarily concerned with love — tragic, satirical, passionate love — written as only a European could write.

But it is also about Paris, the man who enables the humblest peon and coolie to hope for a life without humiliation."

Zoe Oldenbourg has written a powerful book and her penetrating wisdom is incredible in a girl in her twenties. She is all too eminently quotable: "Everything is a cause for suffering to those who want to suffer," or "The greater the certainty of misfortune, the greater is hope."

The modern novel, like modern art and music, is an acquired taste, not always coming too easily, but those willing to try to like it will find their own reward.

There are many long political conversations among the characters, nearly all of whom are of the hero's "Slavic" type.

These are somewhat tedious, but a North American reader seldom has the opportunity or inclination to learn the Communist point of view and here it is ready-made from the lips of the hero: "Slavic."

The Sounding Board

By AUDREY St.D. JOHNSON

This is an ironic old world. It always has been and apparently always will be. With all the New Thought and New Concepts that appear from time to time, the anomalies and lunacies that prompted the utterances of such as G. K. Chesterton, Bernard Shaw and W. S. Gilbert, remain constant.

In Canada, for example, we have long prided ourselves on our concept of education for all. Our public school system provides a great reservoir to which every youth is welcomed—no, commanded—during the first two decades of his life.

But when the little horses are led to the water, even immersed in it, they don't necessarily imbibe it.

In the crowded classrooms of our senior high schools, there is an ever-present percentage of seat-warmers who have no interest in acquiring further general education but for whom the taxpayers must continue to shell out.

It seems to me that at least some of these young people might benefit—and tax dollars be more advantageously used—if general education stopped at junior high school level in the case of the non-scholastic or the below-average student, and a vocational system substituted.

Of course I readily admit ignorance on technical aspects of the problem, not having had the opportunity to observe closely or gather statistics, and so am quite prepared to be told by the authorities that I am talking through my hat. But please—I am only thinking aloud and my thoughts are prompted by a situation that needs me because it is ironic and somewhat unjust.

Here we have the prospect

MARLENE VANCE—trust fund set up of numbers of boys and girls with no ambition, no interest in education, and with no discernable talent, indifferent to, and actually resisting their educational opportunities.

Meanwhile, others of outstanding ability in specific directions scratch and scrimp financially and often go without the higher education in their own field which they desire and deserve.

I don't know how many good doctors, engineers and so forth have been lost to us through lack of available finances. But I have known, and still do, many artists and musicians who are fighting the frustrating and enervating battle of where-withall.

For those most brilliant and obvious talents at the top there is always help.

But the better-than-average talents that are still not in the Gloria Gould-Lewis Marshall or Christopher Plummer category could also fill a useful place in our communities and develop happy, well-adjusted citizens, given full opportunity.

This week Victoria Musical Art Society announces that it has placed in trust the sum of $100 as the nucleus of a fund for Victoria singer Marlene Vance who is now studying at the Royal Conservatory of Music in Toronto.

Miss Vance, a highly commended student, requires another year to complete her solo performer's diploma course. She has been awarded scholarships by the conservatory, but requiring full time for her studies means that she cannot work to make living expenses and will need financial assistance.

The Musical Art Society executive has expressed the hope that other groups or individuals may come forward to swell the trust fund. In the next few months, before Miss Vance is forced to curtail her studies or renounce them altogether.

This action of the society is typical of the interest and support it has always offered Victoria musicians.

But it also serves to highlight the fact that while we strive to educate the uneducatable, we completely neglect the specifically talented.

There should be official provincially administered funds across Canada from which people like Marlene Vance could at least receive long-term loans, upon suitable recommendation, with which to pursue their education in a climate free of worry.

Illustrious Tradition Bred Vienna Choir

Few musical organizations can boast so long a history as that which stretches gloriously behind the Vienna Choir Boys.

Formed by royal decree, 462 years ago—just six years after Columbus sailed to the shores of this continent—the choir sang solely at court functions and in the royal chapel until the Austrian empire came to an end after the First World War.

Reorganized by their devoted rector, but lacking the economic sponsorship of the court, the boys necessarily began to earn their own way with public performances in Vienna and world tours.

The choir has only been disbanded once in its four-and-a-half centuries-long history. That was during the Second World War, when its late rector, Father Josef Schnitz, refused to allow the choir to be used for Nazi propaganda.

Vienna's famous Seminary School, where the youngsters get their training, maintains three choirs, one of which is always in residence for service in St. Stephen's Cathedral. The other two, available on a limited basis for touring, have their touring time contracted for at least two years in advance.

On the roster of names of choir members of former times appear those of Schubert Haydn and other illustrious musicians.

Too Much Alcohol, Sleeping Pills Killed Actress

NEW YORK (AP)—Diana Barrymore died from a combination alcohol and sleeping pills, chief medical examiner Milton Helpern said Thursday.

He said of the 38-year-old actress' death January 25: "Death was caused by an acute alcoholic intoxication enhanced by the effect of ingested barbiturates."

The small amount of barbiturates found in her body indicated strongly that she accidentally killed herself by an unwitting combination of the pills with too much liquor.

Heart-Warming Family Journey; Stern, Bernstein, Vital Team

By HUMPHRY DAVY

A new record entitled The Best of the Trapp Family Singers, has recalled to me how wonderful the Trapps sounded prior to their retirement in 1955.

This Decca album of 32 of the groups' best numbers proved to be an exciting and heart-warming journey into the finest of music. They have a clean freshness that hasn't yet been duplicated.

Selections run from folk songs to Christmas carols. Each is a standout. This record deserves a place in every collection.

Another appealing record of the month is a Columbia new masterworks recording of Beethoven's D minor violin concerto performed by violinist Isaac Stern and the New York Philharmonic with Leonard Bernstein conducting.

It is only to be expected when you team up one of the world's best fiddlers with a brilliant and creative conductor like Bernstein, you are going to get your money's worth.

If you have an old recording of the D minor, I suggest you compare it with this one.

CITY JUVENILE

Faces Stiff Rap

One Victoria minor hockey player is under threat of a year's suspension following incidents at last Saturday's "Minor Hockey Night" in Nanaimo.

Facing the stiff one-year sentence for pushing a referee is Victoria juvenile John Hanson. Under indefinite suspension now, the player's case is to be reviewed fully by B.C. Amateur Hockey Association president Leo Atwell.

Hanson received three majors and a match misconduct in a game which a combined Victoria Junior-Juvenile team lost 3-1 to Nanaimo's juveniles.

The suspension was disclosed Thursday by Ivan Temple of Victoria, first vice-president of the BCHA who attended the "minor hockey night" celebrations in Nanaimo.

Joe's $50,000 Blast Worth Only $12,500!

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Wes Ellis Jr., newly appointed president at West Caldwell, N.J., fashioned a third-round 69 Friday and held the lead in the world's richest golf tournament.

Ellis, a 28-year-old, poker-faced Texan, had previous rounds of 70 and 65. His 54-hole total of 204 was two strokes less than his nearest competitor in the $100,000, 90-hole Palm Springs desert classic.

But the big excitement of the day was not Ellis' steady shot-making. It came when young Joe Campbell fired a tee shot that gave him first claim to the fabulous $50,000 hole-in-one money.

Campbell, changing clubs at the last minute, hit a three-iron from tee to cup on Tamarisk's 205-yard, fifth hole, but he will collect $12,500 at best—if he is the only pro to score an ace.

THREEWAY SPLIT

Campbell, 24, is "split" three ways with a sponsor and a golfing pal. The pal, ironically, will get $25,000 without firing the shot.

Ellis' total for the three rounds was two strokes in front of Johnny Palmer, Bob Goaly, Jack Fleck and John McMullin. Fleck fired a hot 66. McMullin added a 70 to his previous pair of 68s while Goaly and Palmer shot 69.

Herded at 207 were such name pros as Tommy Jacobs, Al Bessellink, Mike Souchak and Arnold Palmer.

At 208 were Stan Leonard of Vancouver, Billy Maxwell and Ken Venturi. Leonard had a 67 Friday to go with previous rounds of 69 and 72.

BALDING 10 BEHIND

Al Balding of Toronto shot a 72 and was 10 strokes behind the leader at 214.

Campbell, who had earned only $804 on the pro circuit this year, made a pre-tournament deal with Buddy Sullivan of Yuba City, Calif., to split the $30,000 prize should either of them score an ace.

But Campbell's $25,000 will be split in half in a separate deal with Charley Faust, operator of a Kinkadee, Reno, public golf course. Campbell splits half his pro earnings with Faust in return for $200 week expenses on the tour.

Basinski's Switch Pleases Mounties

VANCOUVER (CP)—Veteran infielder Eddie Basinski has reconsidered an earlier decision to retire from baseball and will report to the Vancouver Mounties spring training camp.

General manager Bob Freitas said the decision "is certainly good news."

"Basinski is a useful sort to have around. He can fill in at shortstop and second or third base."

Spoil That Race—Who'd Do That?

Warriors in Town Again; Flyers Climb Into Second

It is safe to suggest that only a miracle finish can squeeze Winnipeg Warriors into a Western Hockey League playoff berth.

Hal Laycoe, who calls the shots for Victoria Cougars, doesn't think that is too likely to happen.

Nonetheless, the Warriors still worry Mr. Laycoe. This is so despite the fact Winnipeg is 16 points away from the last playoff berth.

"Those clubs," Harold was saying, "have a habit of becoming spoilers. With goalies at Rolins in there, you can bet your last dollar that Winnipeg will start spoiling things any time."

He hopes that doesn't happen, tonight, when Warriors move back into Memorial Arena for their second meeting with Cougars this week. The Cats carved up a 2-1 overtime decision Wednesday.

Among other things Laycoe doesn't want "spoiled" is the race for second place. Right now, it's a dandy. Seattle Totems and Edmonton Flyers both have a two-point edge over the Cougars. The Victoria club, however, has games in hand over both Edmonton and Seattle.

In a way, the "spoiling" has already started. It happened Friday night in Seattle when the last-place Spokane Comets upset the Totems 2-1 on two goals by Bev Bell and the brilliant goal-tending of Emile Francis.

Two-By Kilburn Help Vancouver

While the Totems went down to the "kids-night" defeat, Edmonton moved in to share second place with them by defeating Calgary Stampeders, 5-4.

To round out the night, the high-riding Vancouver Canucks downed Winnipeg Warriors, 4-2, to stretch their lead to 11 points.

The Vancouver victory was the easiest of the evening. Canucks dominated play throughout the contest, leading 2-1 at the end of the first and adding two unanswered goals in the second. Winnipeg scored their second goal in the final period.

Colin Kilburn scored twice. Canucks and Sandy Hucul and Danny Belisle once each. Winnipeg scoring was by Gerry Brissson and Norm Wasilowski. Canucks' Ray Cullen up two, including the winner.

The rout would have been worse but for fast work by Rolins, who stopped 37 to Hank Bassen's 31.

In the Edmonton encounter, the Flyers' third win this week over the fifth-place Stampeders, Calgary scored in each of the first two periods before Edmonton came back in the third to tie the score twice before Bob Solinger scored twice for victory.

The other Edmonton goals were by Pete Goegan. Bud MacPherson and Warren Hynes. Calgary scorers were Jackie McLeod, Ryn Leopold, Dusty Blair and Lou Jankowski.

A crowd of 4000 including several hundred children, watched Bell score both the Comets' goals while Francis kicked out 27 Seattle shots, more than twice as many as Bev Bentley had to handle in the Totems' net.

The lone Seattle goal was by Gord Sinclair.

With only five seconds to go, Francis thrilled the crowd with a sensational save on what should have been the tying shot by Frank Arnett. The veteran goalie smothered the puck in a dive to the ice and came up smiling with one

Red Wing Pair Sticks to Guns

DETROIT (CP)—Defenceman Red Kelly, key man in a planned trade between Detroit Red Wings and New York Rangers, says his decision to retire from the National Hockey League is final. The same goes for right-winger Billy McNeill.

The two Red Wing players ignored a 24-hour think-it-over period suggested by NHL president Clarence Campbell Friday night and said they have no intention of continuing in big-league hockey.

Kelly, 32, and McNeill, 24, balked at being traded to the Rangers Thursday night in exchange for defenceman Bill Gadsby and left-winger Eddie Shack. Gadsby and Shack returned to the New Yorkers when the deal fell through.

Turf Commission To Hire Steward

VANCOUVER (CP)—Coroner Glen McDonald, chairman of B.C.'s newly-formed racing commission, said Friday the commission will "enforce the rules as set down by the province" on horse racing.

He has called a meeting today with vice-chairman Allan McGavin and full-time secretary Ken McConnell, all of Vancouver.

McDonald said in an interview one of the commission's first moves will be the appointment of a paid steward to represent the commission at race tracks.

Racing officials welcomed the appointments, announced Thursday by Attorney General Bonner.

'Not Worth It!' Is He Kidding?

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Rocky Marciano said Friday that he turned down a million-dollar offer to return to the ring. He added, however, that he would attempt a comeback if offered three million dollars spread over a 10-year period to cut the income tax bite.

Marciano, who retired four years ago as the only unbeaten world heavyweight boxing champion, said he is more interested in breaking 90 on the golf course.

In Pittsburgh to attend a banquet, Marciano told reporters:

"I was with Jim Norris one night in Chicago when he said to me, 'I'll write you a cheque for one million dollars right now if you'll get back in the ring.' I told him no, and he said, 'I never thought I'd meet anybody that would turn down a million dollars in cold cash like that.'"

DASH OF MAYHEM

Victoria Swimmers Revive Water Polo

By MICHAEL ROSE

Water polo bruises are again being worn by Victoria swimmers.

After an absence of more than 20 years, organized competition in this sport is again being revived in Victoria.

Started partially by chance, the league has been developed into a healthy infant under the guiding hands of former British polo player Art Johnson.

First signs of life came when Royal Roads cadets, preparing for their annual "little Olympics" against other Canadian services colleges, went searching for water polo practice.

They found it when members of the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club formed a team to play the cadets.

With Johnson providing coaching assistance, enthusiasm spread through swimming ranks. Naval Technical Apprentices and Victoria University also organized teams.

and a keen battle is now being waged for first place in the league.

Games are played each Sunday afternoon in the Royal Roads pool.

The first game pool, came to Canada in October, 1956.

He must be considered Victoria's top expert at the game on the basis of his experience.

The oldest of swimmers was captain of the Sunderland Amateur Swimming Club team in England and a member of the South Shields club.

which won the county cup three years running.

In all, he has about 10 years of top flight polo under his belt, including a tryout for the 1936 British Olympic squad.

Started in England in the 1920s, the game has been played in Victoria since the late 1930s.

Seven men, including a goalie, form a team and the object is to get the ball into nets at either end of the pool.

Popular in some parts of the United States, where it is was introduced in 1906, the game has not received much notice in this area and almost vanished after a short reign in the 1930s.

This is hard to explain since it is one of the better "spectator sports" and is a good appeal to anyone who appreciates skill with a dash of mayhem.

A word of comfort to Victorians who may attend a game and worry about some unfortunate shove roughly beneath the water.

The world record for retaining under water, unassisted, set by M. Pathiquen of Paris in 1917, is six minutes 29.4 seconds.

PLUS SWIMMING SKILL

This sort of non-breathing is no longer needed since, perhaps because people got tired of pumping water out of polo players, a rule now makes it illegal for a player to hold his head when he is dunked under water. Violations result in possession of the ball being given to the other team.

This Sunday Victoria University meets Technical Apprentices at 1:30 p.m. and Royal Roads takes on the well-conditioned Victoria Amateur Swimming Club at 2:30 p.m.

The Wings will also be without goaltender Terry Sawchuk tonight. He is taking a few games off for a rest. Denis Riggan of the Flyers is replacing him.

PHIL FORCED OUT

Six Ranger Rebels Chased One Coach

TORONTO (CP)—Phil Watson, former coach of New York Rangers, is quoted by Toronto newspapers as saying a player rebellion forced him out as coach of the National Hockey League club early this season.

Watson, now director of the Ranger farm system, said he will not quit his Ranger contract until it expires next August. "Then I'll walk out on my own."

He is also quoted as saying:

"About six of them (the players) got together and decided they'd get rid of me by Christmas. A defenceman was the ring leader. Well, they did. But they haven't been able to get untracked since."

OUTDOOR REPORT

BY

Doug Peden

"Catch 'em young and teach 'em in the cap pistol stage to respect guns, even popguns," is probably the best system to keep young Canada from shooting himself—or someone else.

The B.C. Federation of Fish and Game Clubs isn't getting down into the cap pistol bracket, but the federation people are on the right track.

They have launched one of the biggest projects ever attempted by a Canadian sportsmen's organization. The federation has issued to 113 fish and game clubs in B.C. basic instructional kits for the purpose of giving boys and girls safety education in the handling of firearms, and an elementary course in conservation.

All clubs have been asked to set up their junior programs in a similar pattern, so that all youngsters will be able to meet a recognized standard of instruction. The safety course is being sponsored jointly by the federation and the provincial government, which has offered to finance the program up to $2,500 the first year.

Danger of being shot during hunting seasons may be exaggerated, but every accident is preventable and any program that will trim the casualty rate deserves the utmost in support.

The advantage of aiming safety programs at youngsters is emphasized by statistics from the U.S. National Rifle Association. Compiled last year from 33 states and two Canadian provinces the figures show 1,538 shooting accidents, with teen-agers involved in 46 per cent.

Ignorance is the biggest cause of firearm casualties and if more citizens would teach their kids not to go around pointing toy guns and pistols at people, they would make the federation's job of teaching safety much simpler in future years.

Best steelhead reports this week come from the Sayward and Alberni districts, but some good, fresh-run steelies are being hauled in at San Juan River, Harris Creek and, for those who know how to fish it, Koksilah River.

Unless water levels drop quickly at Cowichan River, the best steelhead fishing may be found above Skutz Falls. Nanaimo River is due for a hot spell and steelies are reported in the Little Qualicum and Quinsam Rivers.

Rough water has kept most salt-water fishermen ashore in the past few days, but indications are that they may be in for a spell of better angling.

At Saanich Inlet, where many trollers were dragging a big chunk of lead in order to put fish in the boat, bluebacks and small springs have been hitting closer to the surface. Bucktail flies, small spoons, minnows and small Strip Teasers are all taking bluebacks and the chance of tangling with a big spring makes it worth while to have tackle in good working order.

Waters around Goldstream Island, where Ray Thomas and Tom Ord boated quick limits Tuesday, may be the most productive, but Tod Inlet, Willis Point, Indian Bay and McKenzie Bay should also yield some good catches, especially in the early-morning hours.

A few tackle-testing springs have been taken between Esquimalt Harbor and Ten Mile Point in the past week by anglers willing to take a chance on the weather and Sidney Spit was one of the better spots last weekend. Blueback fishing off Crofton is rated as fair, but most of the blues are being hooked on deep lines.

Coast Pair Captures Figure Skating Crown

REGINA (CP)—Ontario skaters took three of four junior titles at the Canadian figure skating championships Friday night. The other went to the west coast.

Bradley Black, 18-year-old St. Catharines, Ont., skater who sacrificed his Grade 13 school work for ice practice, won the men's junior singles championship in a close race with Louis James Stong of Unionville, Ont.

Eleanor McLeod, 17, of Toronto, won the women's singles title by a wide margin. She had been runner-up twice.

The Sudbury, Ont., combination of Gertrude Desjardins and Maurice Lafrance skated to the mixed pairs crown while Donna Lee Mitchell and John

Tenpin Interest Focuses on Teams

By MICHAEL ROSE

Attention of tenpin bowlers in Victoria this weekend will be focused on Gibson's alleys, where the 20th annual city team championships will be taking place Sunday.

Some 54 teams were entered from leagues throughout the area in an endeavor to remove the title from the B.C. Government No. 5 team.

Action in the handicap tournament starts at 11 a.m.

Tenpinners gingered themselves up for the championship this week with a spare tourney at Gibson's.

In case you're wondering, spare tournaments merely consist of setting up 30 different spares. Each competitor tries to convert as many as he can.

Frank Ireland converted 27 out of his 30 to win the event. Lew Kamaan followed with 26 and Lloyd Chow was third with 25.

This is the first time an event of this kind has been held in Victoria if the memories of several old-time keggers serves them right.

Only one tenpin bowler broke into the 600 ranks over the week. Sheldon Nipp turned in a score of 635 (241) to lead the field.

Other good scores were: Roy Begg, 598 (226); Wilf Smith, 592 and 585 (223, 206); N. Cain, 575 (230); Tom McKeachie, 567 (236); R. Wilson, 566; Nip Page, 565, and Andy Palmer, 560.

Muriel Dodsworth led the ladies with a sparkling 572.

This column takes a quiet pride in being modest about its effect on readers. Nevertheless, it must be pointed out that following last week's review of ordinary bowling, a nice crop of 800 scores sprang up among fivepin bowlers.

APPRENTICES ON STRIKE

NEWMARKET, Eng. (Reuters)—About 40 apprentice jockeys, including some employed by the Queen's trainer, went on strike Thursday in protest against low pay and lack of opportunity to become full-fledged jockeys.

Their trainer bosses include Capt. Cecil Boyd-Rochford, who trains for the Queen.

Thirty other apprentices went on working but the walk-out by the others threatened to hamper preparations for the opening of the flat racing season next month here in the home of English racing.

Vikings Had Soft Touch But Vics Hard-Pressed

By BILL STANBURY

Victoria University Vikings seemed a virtual shoo-in for the interscholastic basketball title following Friday night's first-round games at the Victoria High School gym.

The Vikings sent in their second-string for two quarters and appeared to be toying with a game squad of cadets from Royal Roads as they hammered out a 79-39 win.

Conditions were much different in the other semifinal as Victoria High Totems nipped Oak Bay 38-37 in one of the roughest contests of the season.

TWO TECHNICALS

The Bays collected two technicals and 12 personal fouls while the Totems were slapped with 17 personals.

In the finals tonight at Vic High, Vikings will meet the home team to decide first place and Oak Bay tackles Royal Roads in the consolation game.

Play starts at 7:30 p.m. Viking kingpin Darrell Lormer played for only half the game against Royal Roads but managed to collect 19 points. Teammate Angus Mitchell added 16.

OAK BAY RALLIES

In the second game, George Andrews's Totems built up a comfortable 21-12 lead at half time but Oak Bay returned to match the Vics' 11-point third

Several Reasons

For Boot Stars

To Show Talent

VANCOUVER (CP)—British Columbia's best soccer players, eyeing berths on the all-star team that will play Scotland's Hearts at Empire Stadium here in June, will get a chance to show their stuff in a special Good Friday game here April 15.

The B.C. tour committee has set that date for a Commonwealth vs. Continental Europe game from which most of the B.C. all-star team is expected to be drawn.

The Hearts game is not the only magnet for the players.

A Russian team will tour here in August and a Canadian all-star team is scheduled to visit Russia in September. The crack Italian team, Juventus, also plays here in July.

From all these games, Canada's world cup side for 1961 will be chosen with the ultimate goal of the world finals in Chile in 1962.

Time for Repair Trip Right Around Home

By MR. FIX

Right about now you're probably going through the mid-winter doldrums. You've taken the necessary cold weather precautions around the house and yard and you feel there's not much more to do until spring.

Even though you may not want to start any major projects, you can fill odd moments with some very necessary maintenance chores.

STOP SQUEAKS

Just about the time the furnace went on you may have noticed that the floors and stairs started to squeak. Floor boards dry out, even shrink. A little powdered graphite or soap powder sprinkled between them will provide temporary silence.

For a more permanent cure try driving wedges between the sub-floor and joists where ever there seems to be a source of noise. If you can't get below the floor, drive flooring nails through the floor boards and into the joist. A pair of them driven at angles so they cross should do it.

Screws or nails through the tread and into the riser will cure stairs of squeaks.

FURNACE FIX

Speaking of the furnace, now that it's been going for a while it ought to be looked at. Check the filter if the furnace has a blower. It might need replacing (or cleaning if it's the permanent type). Oil the motor and check the belt for wear and proper tension.

If furnace pipes are hot while rooms upstairs are cool, this is a good time to wrap the pipes with asbestos.

Walls and woodwork are often midwinter casualties as youngsters spend more time indoors, bumping into furniture instead of trees.

DRIVING SUSPENSIONS TO BE EASED BY ONT.

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government is considering relaxing its driver's licence suspension system, Transport Minister Yaremo indicated in the legislature Friday.

Proposed changes would benefit persons whose livelihood depends on driving and who have had their licences suspended for traffic infractions.

"I do not believe that, in general, lengthy suspensions of drivers' licences are necessary," he told the legislature in tabling a report on Ontario's demerit system.

The system provides a three-month licence suspension for drivers who accumulate 12 points for traffic infractions over a two-year period.

MOST STRIKES 'FORCED' ON WORKERS

Ninety per cent of the strikes and industrial disputes in North America are "forced" on the workers, Tom Uphill, the 86-year-old Labor Independent member for Fernie, said in the legislature Friday.

"In nine cases out of 10, strikes are aggravated by the operators," he said.

Speaking for the coal miners, he said:

"This is the most hazardous occupation in the province and the lowest-paid skilled labor."

10 PER CENT OF POPULATIONS NEEDED

Black Calls for More CD Workers

Between 7 and 10 per cent of the population would be required to assist during the first few weeks of an atomic attack, Provincial Secretary Wesley Black said in the legislature Friday.

"The army has not taken over civil defence in this province or in any other province," he said.

Although 10 per cent means P.C. needs 160,000 volunteers, Mr. Black said "it is most encouraging to know that our own civil defence organization has trained some 68,000 people in the past seven or eight years."

He said the 10 per cent factor applied to the national population means roughly 1,500,000 civil defence workers would be required.

"The strength of the Canadian army is approximately 90,000. These facts speak for themselves and show why civil defence at the community level must intensify its efforts to enroll and train more volunteers."

The minister noted that since April, 1959, the federal government has assumed 75 per cent of the cost of civil defence, the province pays 15 per cent and the municipalities 10 per cent.

THE FIGHTING CLERGYMAN FROM SASKATCHEWAN

'I'm Not Supposed to Say What They Like'

REV. SHAUN HERRON
... "no chicken"

By TONY DICKASON

Rev. Shaun Herron is truly a fighting clergyman. He's fought in Spain, as an infantry captain in Normandy, from the pulpit, from editorial pages, over the BBC and CBC, and as a member of Weyburn, Sask., city council.

Mr. Herron is in Victoria this weekend to address the First United Church congregation at both Sunday services on the occasion of the church's 98th anniversary.

He is not a typical United Church clergyman.

The 47-year-old minister throws out words like "chicken" from behind his cigar smoke, during conversation.

Irish-born, he was educated at universities in Ireland, Scotland and the United States, and has lectured in Canadian universities.

During his 1½ years as a soldier, Mr. Herron was not a chaplain but a line officer, though ordained in Scotland in 1940. A leg wound invalidated him out of the regiment.

Many so-called "taboo" subjects in relation to the church, bring forth a mustache smile along with pithy comments.

"Members of the clergy should be active in public affairs. Most aren't."

This is mainly because "their congregations scare them out of it."

And this in turn is because most church congregations don't understand the direct relationship between Christian people and public life.

The church as a whole should steer clear of politics, but by the very nature of Christianity the individual is bound to evidence more interest and follow up by action, he said.

His morning subject at First United will be "The Frivolous Church," which he predicts is not designed, necessarily to win him friends.

"I'm not supposed to say what they like."

He followed this up by terming the church news pages in newspapers "a dreadful institution."

If church activities "don't stand up on their own merits they should be thrown out."

General tendency of weekly church pages is "embarrassing, as they patronize God so much."

He called religious columnists "inane."

As pastor of Weyburn's largest church, "we have the most people though the church isn't very big," he has had opportunity to visit regularly the 1,500-patient mental hospital in the city.

He came very close recently to tilting with another clergyman, a Baptist-Saskatchewan Premier T. C. Douglas.

He was recently asked by the Progressive Conservative leader to run against Douglas, but declined.

"Tommy is a good man," he remarked impartially.

Apart from writing twice-weekly editorials for the Winnipeg Free Press, he is also a panelist on a weekly CBC program, with a title that aptly sums up Mr. Herron's character.

It's called "Fighting Words."

MONTE ROBERTS

A great many citizens of this, the Fairest City of Them All, are walking the main thoroughfares and the back alleys making sounds such as "Snrrf, Hkktf, Frmmptf" and even "Aaaaah-chquphm."

If you encounter such a citizen, do not make the mistake of asking "How are you?", for the citizen is apt to tell you, thus ruining your day.

As a special warning, if you encounter ME, do not enquire as to the state of my health, because (after I finish making sounds such as "snrrf, Hkktf" etc.) I will tell you in detail, thus ruining not only your day, but your week and possibly the balance of the month.

But I do feel I should explain why all the citizens of this, the Fairest City of Them All, are going around making such sounds, and if not, are huddling in their trundle beds with a glass of hot sarsaparilla within reach.

It is because this, the Fairest City of Them All, has the wrong kind of weather.

The weather here is too mild and too balmy and too pleasant.

Because of this weather, the citizens become soft, pliable, and minus resistance to the forces of evil which promote the snrrf-hkktf, frmmptf, and aaaaah-chquphm routine.

What we need around here is the kind of weather a citizen can get out into and fight, fight, fight.

Do citizens of Halifax go around snrrfing "Snrrf?"

Do citizens of Montreal greet each other with "Hkktf?"

Who ever heard a "Frmmptf" on the snowbound streets of Winnipeg?

The citizens of the more privileged areas of Canada are blessed with brisk, invigorating, uplifting weather at this season of the year.

They have no time to go around picking up peculiar sensations in their breathing apparatus.

In fact, if a citizen of Halifax, Montreal, or Winnipeg paused long enough for a simple "Snrrf," both ears would be frostbitten.

This is the kind of weather we need here—not the enervating spring breeze blowing in from the Pacific, but a blood-stirring gale whipping down from the Arctic.

I, personally, would leave tomorrow for the more privileged parts of Canada, except that every time I try to phone a transportation company for reservations, all I hear on the other end of the line is:

"Aaaaah-chquphm."

TOPICS of the DAY

Robert C. Jackson, 22, sentenced Nov. 5 to six months for obstructing a city police officer arresting his companion for drunkenness, had his sentence cut Friday by B.C. Appeal Court in Vancouver to time spent in custody.

Jackson still must serve two months for contempt of court, to which Magistrate A. I. Thomas sentenced him for questioning the six-month term.

Ralph Bell Laverty, 1741 Bank, was fined $25 in Oak Bay police court Friday when he pleaded guilty to a charge of dumping rubbish at Cattle Point Park.

A young man allowed to sleep in a downtown shop basement is suspected of stealing $100 from a cash register, a wrist watch and a portable radio.

Police were told someone apparently released a coal chute lock from the inside, then entered the basement of Victoria Trading, 576 Yates,

Retired members group of the St. John Ambulance Corps Wednesday at 2.30 p.m. at 715 View.

After a rainy Saturday, Sunday will show some partial clearing and the temperatures will remain mild, the Dominion weather office predicted today.

Gales of up to 40 miles an hour were expected in Juan de Fuca Strait and the Straits of Georgia, decreasing to southeast 30 this evening.

Temperature will range from 40 to 50 degrees.

A city detective left today for Vancouver to return a man arrested by U.S. immigration when he landed at Anacortes from Sidney Friday night following investigation of a series of worthless cheques.

It is alleged the man carried two cheques for $40 and $41.48 at George Straith Ltd., 921 Government, and made a clothing purchase with part of the money.

'SUDSTWO' TOWS AGAIN NEXT WEEK

The Island Tug and Barge Ltd. deep-sea tugboat Sudbury II, which returned to home port Friday after nearly seven months at sea, will leave next weekend on another trans-Pacific tow.

But the crew which sailed with her last July will remain ashore, using up accumulated leave of up to three months per man.

The master who brought her home from Japan, Capt. Hill Wilson, will again be in command. He took over from Capt. Harley Blagborne when the latter flew home to be on hand for the birth of his first child.

"Sudstwo" is alongside the Island Tug Jetty in the Inner Harbor, and a swarm of workmen are chipping rust, repainting, putting machinery in top shape. The ship will get complete overhaul, refit, and inspection when she returns here next May.

Her tow on the next trip is the former USN light aircraft carrier Fanshaw Bay, headed for shipbreakers in Japan.

MONDAY MEETINGS

British-Israel World Federation: 3 p.m., Woodsworth Hall. Address will be given by Miss Mary Casilio on "God's Way, Not Man's."

Douglas Roberts: 7 p.m., Holyrood House.

Victoria Gyro Club: Noon, Empress Hotel. Ralph Bares will speak on work at the Pacific Naval Laboratory.

APPEAL FOR TRANSPLANTS

'Bank' an Eye For the Blind

Want to help a blind person see again? You can by pledging your eyes to the Eye Bank of Canada when you die and have no further use for them.

In the past year, 205 Canadians had their sight restored through cornea willed to the eye bank.

The corneal transplant operation has been performed successfully several times at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Gloria Mortimer, field secretary of the Victoria CNIB office, appealed to all persons to will their eyes during White Cane Week, starting Monday, by contacting her at 1609 Blanshard or phoning EV 4-2913.

"The need for healthy corneas never ends," she said.

Not all blind persons can be helped this way. But those who are blind because of defective corneas can be given sight again.

This is the way it works: the cornea is the small transparent section in your eye in front of the lens. If it is damaged or becomes clouded, you lose your sight. But a new cornea can restore sight.

The transplant operation is much like replacing a pane of frosted glass with a clear one.

WEEK-LONG PROMOTION CAMPAIGN

Scouts Plan Big Show for Adults

Greater Victoria's 2,800 Boy Scouts will try to make their character-building movement better known to adults—especially their own parents—during Boy Scout Week starting Sunday.

They'll do it through a series of nights, father and son banquets, mother and son parties, open-house meetings, poster displays, church parades, and a host of similar activities.

Helping them will be 280 active leaders who serve without pay in the movement and more than 350 adults who are members of Scout group committees.

Altogether there will be 58 groups consisting of 47 Scout troops and 76 cub packs taking part in the celebrations which will be carried through to the end of February.

Among major activities will be a father and son banquet for the present of a long service medal to Robert C. Muir, assistant scoutmaster of the 16th Victoria Lutton Scout Troop, who has served 35 continuous years as a leader in the Scout movement.

The banquet will be held at the South Vancouver Island Ranger Hall, Lutton Road, Glen Lake, on Monday, starting at 6.45 p.m.

On Feb. 21 troops will hold parades to various churches to honor the memory of Lord Baden-Powell, the British major-general who founded the Scout movement.

Coinciding with Boy Scout Week will be the re-organization of the scouting administrative system in Victoria.

Instead of having one district scout council, a total of eight will be formed. The object is to decentralize scouting in the Greater Victoria area to permit greater boy and adult participation in the movement.

The first two of the eight district councils will be formed during the third week in February. On Monday, February 15, at 8 p.m. the Fort Victoria district will hold its inaugural meeting at regional headquarters, 1034 Johnson Street, at 8 p.m. It will be chaired by R. L. V. Jermain.

Pete Loudon, Times legislative and political reporter, has been elected president of the B.C. Legislative Press Gallery, succeeding Andy Stephen, news director of radio station CKDA and CHEK-TV, whose term expires at the end of the current session.

Maury Gwynne, news editor of radio station CJVI, is vice-president, and Ronald Rose, chief legislative reporter for the Vancouver Sun, is secretary-treasurer.

TRAFFIC FINES

Dallas Arthur Gill: HMC Dockyard, $25 for driving without a licence.

In Colwood RCMP court Friday:

Earl Douglas Dawson, 50, HMCS, Naden, $13 and $3 costs, Gordon Dunnett, 273 Glenaida, $10 and $3 costs.

Johann Beyer, Glenisiel Hotel, $25 and $3 costs for driving without a licence.

Edward Surtout Duncan, $20 and $3 costs for speeding over 50.

Mandus Michelsen, Sooke, $25 and $3 costs for failing to yield right of way.

Brian John Willson, 3522 Wishart, $25 and $5.50 costs for failing to transfer registration.

Ronald Fletcher, 1765 Newton, $10 and $3 costs for leaving keys in ignition while vehicle unattended.

Student Census Started

A survey of 3,500 high school students throughout Vancouver Island is under way to find out how many plan to enroll in the University of Victoria during the next four years.

It will tell planning officials how many classes will be needed to meet the mounting college population and in what courses.

The university building fund campaign office said the questionnaire will have a second purpose.

"This will inform the students facilities will be available to them for continuing their education in Victoria upon completion of the building program drive."

'U' Drive Chalks Up $300,000

Firm's Big Donation Boosts Building Fund

The University of Victoria building fund today passed the $300,000 mark with announcement of a $25,000 donation from the British Columbia Sugar Refining Co. Ltd.

Fund officials said contributions to date in the drive for $2,500,000 have been mainly through the committee soliciting Eastern and B.C. corporations, under the chairmanship of E. W. Arnott.

The B.C. Sugar pledge was made by Forrest Rogers, president, and Alan Robertson, treasurer.

Mr. Rogers told campaign representatives his firm was "very happy" to make a contribution toward advancement of higher education in B.C.

Stepped-up solicitation of business firms will begin Feb. 20, according to an announcement from the building fund office today.

Students will start a door-to-door canvass March 30.

The provincial government has promised to match every dollar raised up to $2,500,000 at the rate of $500,000 a year over a five-year period.

'He Didn't Know Right From Wrong'

Leland Eugene Miller, 33, did not know right from wrong at the time of the stabbing death of Mrs. Dorothy Duyvejonck April 2, 1957, at Courtenay, according to Dr. B. Whitman, Vancouver General Hospital psychiatrist.

Testifying today at the Nanaimo Assize Court trial of Miller for the murder of Mrs. Duyvejonck, his common-law wife, Dr. Whitman said he had examined the accused at Oakalla Prison in 1957 and found him to be suffering from schizophrenia, or split personality.

Asked by James J. Proudfoot, defence counsel, whether Miller would be able to appreciate the nature and qualities of the alleged act, Dr. Whitman said:

"In my opinion, he would not know whether the act was right or wrong."

DRAMA FESTIVAL

'17th Doll' To Run For City

Victoria Theatre Guild will represent this city in the British Columbia regional competition of the Dominion Drama Festival here in March.

B.C. Drama Festival Society today announced names of the six plays to be presented. They were selected out of a field of 16 entries which were judged earlier by Janie Stevenson of the UBC Drama Department.

"Summer of the Seventeenth Doll," the Theatre Guild entry directed by Mrs. Phyllis Dumas, will open the festival on Monday, March 21, at Oak Bay Junior High School.

The other five plays which will occupy the week through to March 26, selected at an adjudicators' meeting in Vancouver, are, in order of presentation: University of B.C. Players' Club, "Romanoff and Juliet"; Burnaby Little Theatre, "Edwina Black"; La Troupe Molliere, Vancouver, "Zone"; Vancouver Little Theatre, "View From the Bridge"; New Westminster Vagabonds, "Come Back Little Sheba."

Winner of the regional festival will meet winners of other provincial festivals in May in competition for the Calvert Trophy and a $1,000 cash award.

2 Men Charged In Cheque Fraud; Woman Also Held

Two men were charged in city police court today with uttering a forged cheque for $190.24 in Victoria on Thursday.

James Clarke and Charles P. Flater, reportedly of Vancouver, were remanded without plea to Monday.

They and a woman, Joan Boger, were held on a vagrancy charge pending the cheque investigation, and were remanded to Monday when they appeared before Magistrate William Ostler Friday.

Police are holding a station wagon bearing Ontario license plates, which the men apparently drove to Victoria.

Following the arrest, police recovered more than 200 cheques, some previously reported stolen in Vancouver.

All three were being held in the city jail until $250 bail could be arranged.

Victoria Daily Times SATURDAY, FEB. 6, 1960 19

Whoosh! That snowball hit Miss Jean Fraser right in the face. But it's all part of the fun at a mountain resort where winter sports include tobogganing, walks in the snow and skiing. Heavy parka worn by Miss Fraser is needed in the snow.

Sun coming up over distant coastal mountain range heralds a day of skiing at Forbidden Plateau. Picture, from slopes behind the lodge, gives a wonderful idea of the vista far below, including the city of Courtenay, the Comox Peninsula and the waters between Vancouver Island and the mainland.

Demonstrating his ability on skis is Nils Sjöberg, a member of the B.C. Forest Service group. He is pictured taking the down grade over the snow-covered slopes.

WEEKEND On the Slopes

Fifty happy, young people, all staff members of British Columbia Forestry Service, had a full day of skiing on Forbidden Plateau last weekend. With yells, laughter and excitement, group ate a hearty breakfast—a "must" in eyes of Forbidden Plateau Lodge owners, Mr. and Mrs. T. G. S. Chambers. All day long the merry skiers whizzed down slopes on the dry, powdery snow and climbed back up for another skim down. In the evening, after an appetizing dinner, they gathered around the fireplace in lounge of lodge to sing, dance and play games.

Enjoying it are left back, Miss Donna Evenoff, Miss Laureen Bennett, Miss Joan Valen and Miss Caroline Webb. On occasion of the young people's visit, square dance caller Norman Frost led the group in dancing.

Equipment for skiing must be in top-notch condition and here lodge proprietor, T. G. S. Chambers shows Mark Boas and Miss Margaret Grossland how he polishes and services skis in his workshop in the lodge. Guests rent equipment there.

A tumble as she came down the slope at Forbidden Plateau was taken by attractive Miss Berle Andre. She didn't wait, after all, there was a cozy lodge waiting after the day on slopes. Like many enthusiastic skiers, Berle untangled herself, got up and continued down the hill!

SHOPPING GUIDE

Buy the Metal Polisher That Local Firemen Prefer

By PENNY SAVER

Have you ever wondered how fire departments always manage to keep fire trucks and equipment absolutely sparkling with cleanliness? Part of the secret lies in metal polishers I've discovered in a downtown store. Store manager tells me that he supplies both Victoria and Saanich fire departments with this miracle worker. Good for cleaning any metal whether it's copper, zinc, steel or brass, it's a life saver for housewives who like to keep steel tops of their oil stoves mirror bright.

If you apply it when the stove is warm it will lift all grease and grime in no time flat. Just rub and finish off with a clean cloth. In paste form, you buy 16 ounces for $1. Liquid polisher costs 50 cents a half-pint.

A reader told me about a furniture cream that I've tried and find outstanding. Simple to use, it should be applied on a piece of cheesecloth. Rub, and your furniture is cleaned and polished, all in one operation! Price of cream is 45 cents for three ounces, 85 cents for eight and $1.50 for 16 ounces.

It's not only good for all wood surfaces and finishes, it will work wonders on refrigerator and stove surfaces. Store assistant told me that one Vancouver boat owner always gets this cream here so that he can keep his boat looking "ship shape."

Tired of never being able to find a can opener when you need it? If you are, I suggest that you buy one of the wall type can openers that are reduced to $3.45 this week. Openers carry the Good Housekeeping label and are made of sturdy cadmium. Cutting blades will last about three years and can be easily replaced when necessary.

For information on any of these items phone Penny at EV 2-3131.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

To Gain—See Doctor—Heed Column Advice

I just received the following letter from a very young woman.

"I am 14 years old, 5 feet 4 inches tall and weigh 90 pounds, or a little less. Please give me some advice on how to gain weight."

"I am so tired of wearing full slips to school every day and starching them every Saturday. I feel left out when my friends wear tight skirts, but I can't wear them because I look like a beanie. I am afraid to go to parties where girls wear pedal pushers because I look stupid in them. I have been asked many times to go swimming but I always refuse, saying that I haven't gotten a bathing suit yet. Please help me."

This young lady is very much underweight and should make every effort to gain, first for health and then for appearance. The first step is to have a check-up by her family physician. He no doubt will have some advice for her and here is some from me.

A well-balanced diet is of the greatest importance. Many would-be weight gainers make the mistake of stuffing on high-calories, rich foods, neglecting such low-calorie items as fresh fruits and vegetables. Vitamin deficiency is one reason for underweight. You do need more calories than your fat friend and can eat more of the rich foods than she, but your food intake must give you all of the elements essential for best health.

You may also find that dividing your calories between five smaller meals rather than three big ones may suit you better. Vitamin B complex often helps in a gain of weight. Your doctor may give you this. Then, of course, you must get plenty of sleep. Exercise should not be too strenuous but should be indulged in daily. Swimming and walking are good ones for you.

Instructions 7168 has step-by-step directions for making slip covers for chairs, sofas, and beds. Send 25 cents (coins) for this pattern (stamps cannot be accepted) to Times House, Dept., 60 Front St. West, Toronto, 1A, Ont. Print plainly name, address, pattern number.

Just out! Our new 1960 Alice Brooks Needlecraft Book contains three free patterns. Plus ideas galore for home furnishings, fashions, gifts, toys, hazyard sellers, exciting, unusual designs to crochet, knit, quilt. Send 25 cents now!

FOR THE EFFECTIVE TREATMENT OF PSORIASIS (CHRONIC)

Lady Barber Prefers Men

CALGARY (CP)—A woman who has been a barber for 25 years says she prefers men to women as customers.

"In so many cases women come into a salon looking like Zasu Pitts and expect to leave looking like Marilyn Monroe," says June Grant.

"Of course, you get the odd fussy man too, but mostly they're much easier to please and much friendlier too."

"It's funny, you know. Men always hesitate a little before coming in for the first time. They pace back and forth in front of the shop five or six times and peer in the window. I guess they're a little scared." Mrs. Grant says barbering is "earning a living the hard way."

She can show a scar or two where a rambunctious youngster has planted his teeth. There's a big one on her arm where Eric Nesterenko, now with Chicago Black Hawks of National Hockey League, bit her when he was a young time. There were five men in the shop while Mrs. Grant was being interviewed.

"They gossip just as much as women do. But they're open about it. Women whisper very softly so no one will hear."

Don't Remain Silent

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are in a bit of a predicament. We are both in the company of parents, brothers, sisters, cousins and so forth.

A relative of mine and her boyfriend are always musing up a storm in front of everybody. We are embarrassed to look at them. They say there is nothing wrong with it as long as they love each other. She is 17 and he is 19.

A RELATIVE DEAR RELATIVE: "Musing up a storm" in public is in extremely bad taste and entirely out of place.

"What's your problem?"

Sally Victor, New York bred and ever responsive to its rhythms, has found inspiration for her spring and summer collection in architecture of this exciting city. This model is "Halo Brim."

Halo Hats Worn at Back of Head Big News in Spring Fashion Story

"Hattery is the Sincerest Form of Flattery."

Working with celebrities of stage, screen, radio and society, the Millinery Institute of America selected the above as their slogan for this exciting year for millinery.

Designers are stimulated by the fact that with an almost unchanged fig. Nona is milady's chapeau. Most important hat shapes are the Breton and the beret, new because both are mounted on a bandeau that fits lightly far back on the head and turns the hat into a halo. Stiff-brimmed Buster Brown sailors and small rollers, like a shirtwaist dress, are always with us. For the coming season they will have an altogether new look by being clasped nonchalantly on the back of the head.

Coiffures are undisturbed by these halting, off-face styles. Cosmetics are emphasizing eye make-up that plays up the beauty of the eyes to go with the three off-the-face millinery styles shown here.

Members of the planning committee for the Quila Nichol Service League—Valentine coffee party to be held in the Hudson's Bay Douglas Room on Tuesday from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., include from the left, Miss E. Tait, home-cooking stall; Mrs. E. W. Bourque, treasures stall; Mrs. E. W. F. Fox, general convener; and Mrs. Arthur Ashworth, treasurer. League was formed to help handicapped workers at Goodwill Enterprises. This is one of its first money-making projects.

Check Image In Mirror

When you're dressing for a special occasion, do you make the mistake of looking at yourself in a mirror that only shows part of you at one time? If you do, you're taking a chance on not looking your best.

Your hair may be arranged beautifully. Your earrings may add the perfect finishing touch to your hairdo. And yet, neither may be just right for the dress and shoes you are wearing.

When other people see you, they see the complete picture—not just an attractive hair style or a pretty dress. Everything you wear should comprise the best possible portrait you can present. And unless you have carefully examined yourself in a full-length mirror, you won't know for certain that the clothing, coiffure, shoes and jewelry you've chosen complement each other as you hoped they would.

CLEANLINESS

We all try to look as well-groomed as we possibly can at all times. And with daily use of soap and water and all the wonderful beauty aids the cosmetic industry has placed at our fingertips, there's no reason why we shouldn't.

But to be sure that we add, rather than detract from, lasting beauty, it's important that we keep our beauty tools as clean as we keep ourselves.

There's no point in having a well-scrubbed face if you're going to use a soiled powder puff. The puff will only press dirt into the pores of your skin.

If you carefully shampoo your hair whenever it needs it, your comb and brush should be scrupulously clean at all times, too.

Unless you care properly for your beauty tools, you can undo much of the good you achieve by keeping your hair and skin in clean, good condition.

There's nothing like a good swim for working up an appetite. Believe the active Jackson children. Just back from the pool, Marge takes a hand with the cooking while Cathy, Sally, Joe, Tom and David hope that it won't be too long before dinner time. Big brother, Hugh, stands by to give a helping hand.

Feeding Family Little Problem To Busy Mother of Ten Children

By PAT DUFOUR

No medals are handed out as an award for successfully feeding a family, year in and year out, yet many a Victoria housewife performs meritorious deeds in accomplishing this, especially at this time of the year. One woman who deserves "honorable mention" is Mrs. T. L. Jackson, although she'd be the last to admit it.

Chaplain and Mrs. Jackson have a husky family of 10 children at their Joffe Street home. Meal times are always the most popular hours of the day and this isn't surprising when you realize that seven of the young people are swimming champions with the YMCA swim team.

HUNGRY GROUP

There's nothing like swimming for giving one a good hearty appetite, and their mother can always rise to the occasion when Hugh, 17; Marge, 15; Tom, 14; Joe, 12; David, 11; Sally, eight, and six-year-old Cathy dash in crying, "What's for dinner, Mum?" after a particularly hard workout.

Not that Janice, 19, and the younger children, Susie, three, and 18-month-old Jimmie are ever very far behind in the rush to the dinner table!

One of Mrs. Jackson's hints for cutting food costs is to buy as much as you can in the middle of the month.

"I've noticed that food stores will have most of their 'specials' at that time to encourage buying. I'm quite sure that I save quite a bit by buying then."

RICE A HIT

Before her husband joined the RCN, Mrs. Jackson made homes for her family all over Canada and spent three and a half years in Trinidad where Chaplain Jackson served as a missionary.

It was from their stay in Trinidad that Mrs. Jackson and her family developed a fondness for rice.

"We use it in all kinds of dishes. I buy it in Chinatown in 50-pound bags. We buy our cereals in bulk, too."

It wasn't surprising to learn that one of her favorite recipes is Indian curry. Mrs. Jackson passes it on for others to try, reducing the quantity so that it will serve between four and six people.

Try one or two onions and one pound beef (this may be ground beef or stewing beef) in fat until slightly browned. Mix curry powder (one to two tablespoons, according to taste) and two tablespoons flour into meat and add two cups water or stock gradually, stirring constantly.

Now add half cup raisins, two tart apples, peeled and diced; one teaspoon salt and pepper to taste. Simmer gently for one hour.

"You can use pepperberries instead of pepper," Mrs. Jackson suggested. "I like the Madras curry—it has such a good flavor. If you want, you can also add some tomato or tomato soup."

"In fact," she went on, "you can use almost any vegetable in curry except turnip or potato. If you're using cooked meat, this should be added with the raisins and apples. When the curry is ready we like to serve it on hot, cooked rice."

Another money-saver Mrs. Jackson recommends is the buying of cracked eggs. "These are much cheaper," she told me, "and can be cooked just as well as any if you remember not to put them into boiling water first—water should be lukewarm."

HOME FREEZER

Having a freezer, she also saves by buying bread in bulk and freezing it until she's ready to use it.

"Most wholesale bakers sell bread specially priced for people to freeze."

It's fortunate that the Jacksons have four apple trees in their garden for they all love apples and Mrs. Jackson cooks them in every way imaginable. Here again the freezer comes in useful.

"We freeze lots of fruit from the garden, apples, raspberries, strawberries and loganberries," she said. "We're also lucky enough to have a grape vine that keeps us well supplied with grapes."

Does cooking and caring for a family keep her busy?

"Oh, yes, it certainly does," replied Mrs. Jackson. "But the older children are wonderful. The five eldest take turns preparing school lunches, each has a turn once a week. Besides, they all love to help."

Then she excused herself to check on her "helpers" in the kitchen.

Supper Dance

Victorians planning to attend the supper dance at the Empress Hotel this evening include Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Phillips who will be with Mr. and Mrs. Trav Cusance, Mr. and Mrs. George Love, Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey Ellis and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lovitt. Hotel's orchestra will play for dancing at the affair.

Judges Overlook Probation---Black

Many B.C. juvenile court judges send young prisoners to government industrial schools in preference to placing them on probation, Welfare Minister Wesley Black said Friday.

Speaking in the legislature, he said this course appears to be chosen because the judges are aware of the improved facilities offered by the schools.

"This procedure has caused quite a rise in the population of our schools . . . to a point where facilities are strained to the utmost."

"Well over 20 per cent of the admissions to the Brannen Lake School are for first offenders, and the boys are committed to the school without first trying probation."

"It is hoped that in the proposed examination of our probation services, a very close look at first offenders in our juvenile courts will ensue," he said.

Mr. Black indicated that he and Health Minister Eric Martin are expected to evolve a new program to aid emotionally disturbed youngsters.

THANK YOU, VICTORIA

"Convalescing nicely, thank you," say Archie and Dot McKinnon, now in Honolulu on the vacation, furnished by friends in Victoria after the "Y" physical director was badly injured in a fall last October. They pose with the conventional decoration of the famed Island resort. Archie reports himself in greatly improved condition from the rest, sunshine and warm water swimming at Waikiki, says Mrs. McKinnon is becoming more expert all the time at the crawl.

Join the Peace To Power Pool

VANCOUVER (CP) — Connection of Peace River resources to an international power pool would result in another $30,000,000 in annual revenue for British Columbia, the Peace River Power Development Company's chief technical adviser said Friday.

SIU MEN ASK POLICE PROBE OF RED INFLUX

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two members of the Seafarers International Union (Ind.) have asked for a full-scale RCMP investigation into alleged Communist infiltration of the labor movement in Canada.

G. A. Hughes and Tom Osborne, claiming to represent about 50 SIU members, also said in an interview they fear that Norman Cunningham, SIU port agent here, is in danger of personal attack. They supplied no details of their fears.

The men said the RCMP should investigate the Canadian Labor Congress, the British Columbia Federation of Labor, the Vancouver Labor Council, the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC) and the CBRT's seamen's local.

123 Nabbed in Plot

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Luis E. Suero, Dominican Republic attorney general, said Friday 123 persons have been arrested in connection with a plot this covered recently by the army intelligence service.

Brain Trust Will Map U.S. Future

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower appointed an 11-member national goals commission today "to identify the great issues of our generation" and recommend national policies for the next decade or more.

"The commission has the opportunity to sound a call for greatness to a resolute people in the best tradition of our founding fathers," the president said in a memorandum outlining its job.

Today's long-delayed announcement carries out a plan first proposed by Eisenhower in his 1959 state of the union message to congress.

The membership includes five educators, two business executives, a labor leader, an editor, a retired general, and a retired jurist.

It was announced Wednesday that Dr. Henry Wriston, former president of Brown University and now president of the American assembly at Columbia University, would be chairman of the commission. Frank Pace, former secretary of the Army and now chairman of the board of General Dynamics Co., Inc., was also named vice chairman.

OTHER MEMBERS

The remaining nine named today were: James Killian, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Alfred Gruenther, president of the American Red Cross and former NATO commander; Clark Kerr, president of the University of California; Learned Hand, retired justice of the U.S. Circuit Court at New York; Erwin Canham, editor of the Christian Science Monitor and president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce; Colgate Darden, former governor of Virginia and former president of the University of Virginia; James Conant, former president of Harvard University and former ambassador to the West German republic; George Meany president of the AFL-CIO, and Crawford Greenewalt, president of E. I. DuPont de Nemours and Co., Inc.

The White House said the panel would be financed by private sources and would use no government funds.

In his memorandum Eisenhower said: "We are now the strongest nation on earth. This fact brings with it the realization that with power comes responsibility."

"We have found ourselves in a position in which the entire world looks to us for leadership and help. In the first instance against an aggressive Communist conspiracy, but more broadly in the world-wide struggle for realization of decent conditions of life."

TAKE UP SLACK

Under an agreement with other companies, he said, those in the south would supply as many customers as possible until periods when their rivers were at a minimum cycle in power production. Then the Peace utilizing its vast storage facilities, would take over and provide continuous power for four years.

Mr. Chantrell described the Rocky Mountain Trench as the "best part of Canada for mid-northern development," and stressed that "nothing of any account" will be spoiled. He said transmission of Peace power was definitely no more expensive than any other power transmission, and predicted the total transmission losses for Peace River power would be six to seven per cent compared with eight to 10 per cent with similar operations.

AFTER THE SHOOTING

Cuban Officials Blamed for Shots

HAVANA (AP) — The impression developed today that all the shooting which threw the opening of the Soviet exposition into turmoil Friday came from trigger-happy Cuban guards and police.

Newspaper handling of the story contributed to a widely held belief the gunfire that killed Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan's visit came solely from official efforts to break up an anti-Communist student demonstration.

All but one of Havana's morning newspapers played down the shooting, which erupted in a nearby park minutes before the scheduled inauguration of the Soviet exposition at the Fine Arts Palace.

CHILDREN BLAMED

Revolution, the organ of Premier Fidel Castro's 16th of July movement, confined its coverage to a brief story below the fold of the front page. It blamed "rich children" instigated by counter-revolutionaries.

Mikoyan Friday night endorsed the Cuban revolutionary regime's expropriation of private property and likened it to the early action of the Bolsheviks in Russia.

"Confiscation without any compensation of all means of production" was one of the secrets of the Russian rise to power, Mikoyan said at the dedication of the Soviet exposition here.

Arnold Strunk, 25-year-old baker who said he defaced the shrine to draw attention to the "Jewish danger to the German race," was sentenced to one year and two months.

Paul Schoenel, also 25 and an apprentice clerk, drew a 10-month term for assisting Strunk.

B.C. Art Best in Canada But Where Is It Hidden?

VANCOUVER (CP) — Alan Jarvis, former director of the National Gallery in Ottawa, arrived in Vancouver and quickly put the city in its place in the art world.

"It astonished me that a city of such civic magnificence should have such a poor collection," he said today of the permanent collection at the Vancouver Art Gallery.

"To put it mildly, it's pitiful," he told reporters, excepting a group of paintings and sketches by native artist Emily Carr.

Mr. Jarvis gave a firm "never" to suggestions advanced here recently that city council take over the financing of the gallery.

"I don't want to be rude about your council, but you can hardly run an art gallery like the street and sanitation department."

City council gave $27,500 to the gallery last year and has donated a total of $178,950 in the last 10 years. The art association has raised $344,050 in the same period.

KILAUEA CRATER, Hawaii (UPI) — Hawaii Red Cross officials set up an emergency relief center and prepared evacuation plans today as ominous steam clouds and hissing issued from the Halemaumau firepit inside Kilauea crater.

The Red Cross moved cots and blankets into the Mountain View School a few miles from the crater and the agency's disaster chairman on the big island placed workers on a standby basis for immediate call.

24-Hour Halt To Shooting In Mid-East

TEL AVIV (UPI) — An Israeli spokesman said today there had been no shooting for 24 hours in the tense Israeli-Syrian demilitarized zone south of the Sea of Galilee.

It was the longest period of quiet since the series of clashes broke out near the Arab village of Tawafik 10 days ago.

Israel was still waiting for a reply to its proposal Friday for talks on "complete peace" with the United Arab Republic's northern (Syrian) region.

The proposal was addressed to Gen. Carl Carlsson von Horn, head of the United Nations truce supervision team. Israeli army chief of staff Maj. Gen. Haim Laskov said in Jerusalem today that the Syrian army showed "clear signs" of Soviet influence in training and equipment.

In an interview with the newspaper Ma'atav, Laskov said there had been "changes in equipment" within Syrian forces over the past few years. It has long been known Russia has supplied the UAR with tanks, jet planes and other military equipment.

Seven Miners Trapped

TOKYO (AP) — In Japan's second coal-mine disaster in a week, seven men were trapped underground in Yamada today. Dynamite blasts nearby caused the cave-in and sent water flooding the pit where the men were working.

A FRIENDLY GHOST

Margaret Gave the Sign

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — A clergyman and his opera singer daughter today reported they are sharing their home with a friendly ghost named Margaret.

Rev. Donald Erettick and his daughter, Justice, said the ghost has been in the deargae for 12 years.

"It is no poltergeist who hurls things around the house," said the vicar. "We have almost come to regard Margaret as a friend of the family."

His daughter said she and some friends decided to test the ghost. They turned on two candles and placed a bowl of freshly-picked roses on a table.

Miss Rettick called out: "If you are present, Margaret, give us a sign."

She said: "The ghost gave a sign all right. The candles went out the radiator went off and every petal fell from the roses."

Cannon Shots For Anniversary

LONDON (AP) — The bark of big guns and the peal of church bells convinced thousands of Londoners today that Queen Elizabeth's baby had arrived at last. But it was just a false alarm.

The noise of artillery salute echoing over the city commemorated the eighth anniversary of the Queen's accession to the throne.

Thousands of people, hearing the mingled sound of the bells and guns, rang newspaper offices.

"Is it a boy or girl?" they breathlessly asked. They were told it was neither.

Outside Buckingham Palace, crowds cheered Prince Philip as he drove home from a shooting vacation in Norfolk to be near his wife when the baby is born.

SPARKED BY HYDE PARK The midday boom of a 41-gun salute from Hyde Park started the rumor that events had preceded him.

In the East End, Cockneys heard the 61-gun broadside from the gaunt, grey Tower of London, and the rumor spread.

Elsewhere, ships and shore batteries fired 21-gun salutes.

When the baby arrives, the bell-ringers will sound a full peal of bells, which is reserved only for royal marriages, births and coronations.

The birth date is still anybody's guess. Miss Helen Rowe, the Queen's maternity nurse, has not yet taken up residence at Buckingham Palace. She is expected to do so about three days before the estimated time of arrival.

In Victoria a 21-gun salute was fired by the 5th B.C. Independent Medium Battery, RCA, at noon from the Causeway marking the anniversary.

Clean Up Mission Underway in Algeria

ALGIERS (Reuters) — Three trouble-shooting ministers of President de Gaulle's shuffled cabinet arrived here by air today on a "cleanup" mission.

A few hours earlier, French authorities seized shipments of the Paris newspaper, Paris-Jour and five French political weeklies.

Officials said the newspapers were seized on arrival to keep Algiers calm, following the collapse of a rightwing settlers' uprising Monday.

Despite rigid censorship of the local press, Algiers newspapers today were permitted to report the arrest and imprisonment of Dr. Bernard Lefevre, head of a neo-Fascist movement banned by authorities two days ago. He was accused in court Friday of acts against the internal security of the state.

Warrants for further arrests were reported as supporters of the abortive settlers' revolt nervously awaited the recommendations of the "cleanup" mission from Paris.

THE FIGHTING CLERGYMAN FROM SASKATCHEWAN

'I'm Not Supposed to Say What They Like'

REV. SHAUN HERRON
"no chicken"

By TONY DICKASON
Rev. Shaun Herron is truly a fighting clergyman. He's fought in Spain, as an infantry captain in Normandy, from the pulpit, from editorial pages, over the BBC and CBC, and as a member of Weyburn, Sask., city council.

Mr. Herron is in Victoria this weekend to address the First United Church congregation at both Sunday services on the occasion of the church's 95th anniversary.

He is not a typical United Church clergyman.

The 47-year-old minister throws out words like "chicken" from behind his cigar smoke during conversation.

Irish-born, he was educated at universities in Ireland, Scotland and the United States, and has lectured in Canadian universities.

During his 4 1/2 years as a soldier, Mr. Herron was not a chaplain but a line officer, though ordained in Scotland in 1940. A leg wound invalidated him out of the regiment.

Many so-called "taboo" subjects in relation to the church bring forth a mustached smile along with pithy comments.

"Members of the clergy should be active in public affairs. Most aren't."

This is mainly because "their congregations scare them out of it."

"And this in turn is because most church congregations don't understand the direct relationship between Christian people and public life."

The church—as a whole should steer clear of politics, but by the very nature of Christianity the individual is bound to evidence more interest and follow up by action," he said.

His morning subject at First United will be "The Frivolous Church," which he predicts is not designed necessarily to win him friends.

"I'm not supposed to say what they like."

He followed this up by terming the church news pages in newspapers "a dreadful institution."

If church activities "don't stand up on their own merits they should be thrown out."

General tendency of weekly church pages is "embarrassing, as they patronize God so much."

He called religious columnists "inane."

As pastor of Weyburn's largest church—"we have the most people though the church isn't very big"—he has had opportunity to visit regularly the 1,500-patient mental hospital in the city.

He came very close recently to tilting with another clergyman, a Baptist—Saskatchewan Premier T.C. Douglas.

He was recently asked by the Progressive Conservative leader to run against Douglas, but declined.

"Tommy is a good man," he remarked impartially.

Apart from writing twice-weekly editorials for the Winnipeg Free Press, he is also a panelist on a weekly CBC program with a title that aptly sums up Mr. Herron's character.

It's called "Fighting Words."

Student Census Started

A survey of 3,500 high school students throughout Vancouver Island is under way to find out how many plan to enroll in the University of Victoria during the next four years.

It will tell planning officials how many classes will be needed to meet the mounting college population and in what courses.

The university building fund campaign office said the questionnaire will have a second purpose.

"This will inform the students how many classes will be available to them for continuing their education in Victoria upon completion of the building program drive."

'U' Drive Chalks Up $300,000

Firm's Big Donation Boosts Building Fund

The University of Victoria building fund today passed the $300,000 mark with announcement of a $25,000 donation from the British Columbia Sugar Refining Co. Ltd.

Fund officials said contributions to date in the drive for $2,500,000 have been mainly through the committee soliciting Eastern and B.C. corporations, under the chairmanship of E. W. Arnott.

The B.C. Sugar pledge was made by Forrest Rogers, president, and Alan Robertson, treasurer.

Mr. Rogers told campaign representatives his firm was "very happy" to make a contribution toward advancement of higher education in B.C.

Stepped-up solicitation of business firms will begin Feb. 20, according to an announcement from the building fund office today.

Students will start a door-to-door canvass March 30.

The provincial government has promised to match every dollar raised up to $2,500,000 at the rate of $500,000 a year over a five-year period.

'He Didn't Know Right From Wrong'

Leland Eugene Miller, 33, did not know right from wrong at the time of the stabbing death of Mrs. Dorothy Duvyjenek April 2, 1957, at Courtenay, according to Dr. B. Whitman, Vancouver General Hospital psychiatrist.

Testifying today at the Nanaimo Assize Court trial of Miller for the murder of Mrs. Duvyjenek, his common-law wife, Dr. Whitman said he had examined the accused at Oakalla Prison in 1957 and found him to be suffering from schizophrenia, or split personality.

Asked by James J. Proudfoot, defence counsel, whether Miller would be able to appreciate the nature and qualities of the alleged act, Dr. Whitman said:

"In my opinion, he would not know whether the act was right or wrong."

IMPROVED
He said Miller's condition has since markedly improved, and that "the prisoner now is able to understand what is going on in this court."

Sgt. Roy Woolsey of Victoria city police said on the witness stand he had known Miller's family for 25 years, and that in 1956 Miller had complained to him of the "little black men" mentioned earlier in the trial.

2 Men Charged In Cheque Fraud; Woman Also Held

Two men were charged in city police court today with uttering a forged cheque for $190.24 in Victoria on Thursday.

James Clarke and Charles P. Flater, reportedly of Vancouver, were remanded without plea to Monday.

They and a woman, Joan Boger, were held on a vagrancy charge pending the cheque investigation, and were remanded to Monday when they appeared before Magistrate William Ostler Friday.

Police are holding a station wagon bearing Ontario licence plates, which the men apparently drove to Victoria.

Following the arrest police recovered more than 200 cheques, some previously reported stolen in Vancouver.

All three were being held in the city jail until $250 bail could be arranged.

MONTE ROBERTS

A great many citizens of this, the Fairest City of Them All, are walking the main thoroughfares and the back alleys making sounds such as "Snrrf, Hkkff, Frmmppff," and even "Aaaaah-chquphm."

If you encounter such a citizen, do not make the mistake of asking "How are you?" for the citizen is apt to tell you, thus ruining your day.

As a special warning, if you encounter ME, do not enquire as to the state of my health, because (after I finish making sounds such as "snrrf, Hkkff," etc.) I will tell you in detail, thus ruining not only your day, but your week and possibly the balance of the month.

But I do feel I should explain why all the citizens of this, the Fairest City of Them All, are going around making such sounds, and if not, are huddling in their trundle beds with a glass of hot sarsaparilla within reach.

It is because this, the Fairest City of Them All, has the wrong kind of weather.

The weather here is too mild and too balmy and too pleasant.

Because of this weather, the citizens become soft, pliable, and minus resistance to the forces of evil which promote the snrrf-hkkff, frmmppff, and aaaaah-chquphm routine.

What we need around here is the kind of weather a citizen can get out into and fight, fight, fight.

Do citizens of Halifax go around snorting "Snrrf?"

Do citizens of Montreal greet each other with "Hkkff?"

Who ever heard a "Frmmppff" on the snowbound streets of Winnipeg?

The citizens of the more privileged areas of Canada are blessed with brisk, invigorating, uplifting weather at this season of the year.

They have no time to go around picking up peculiar sensations in their breathing apparatus.

In fact, if a citizen of Halifax, Montreal, or Winnipeg paused long enough for a simple "Snrrf," both ears would be frosted.

This is the kind of weather we need here—not the enervating spring breeze blowing in from the Pacific, but a blood-stirring gale whipping down from the Arctic.

I, personally, would leave tomorrow for the more privileged parts of Canada, except that every time I try to phone a transportation company for reservations, all I hear on the other end of the line is:

"Aaaaah-chquphm."

TOPICS of the DAY

Robert C. Jackson, 22, sentenced Nov. 5 to six months for obstructing a city police officer arresting his companion for drunkenness, had his sentence cut Friday by B.C. Appeal Court in Vancouver to time spent in custody.

Jackson still must serve two months for contempt of court, to which Magistrate A. L. Thomas sentenced him for questioning the six-month term.

Ralph Bell Laverty, 1741 Bank, was fined $25 in Oak Bay police court Friday when he pleaded guilty to a charge of dumping rubbish at Cattle Point Park.

A young man allowed to sleep in a downtown shop basement is suspected of stealing $100 from a cash register, a wrist watch and a portable radio overnight Thursday.

Police were told someone apparently released a coal chute lock from the inside, then entered the basement of Victoria Trading, 576 Yates.

Refired members group of the St. John Ambulance Corps Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. at 715 View.

After a rainy Saturday, Sunday will show some partial clearing and the temperatures will remain mild, the Dominion weather office predicted today.

Gales of up to 40 miles an hour were expected in Juan de Fuca Strait and the Straits of Georgia, decreasing to southeast 30 this evening.

Temperature will range from 40 to 50 degrees.

A city detective left today for Vancouver to return a man arrested by U.S. immigration when he landed at Anacortes from Sidney Friday night following investigation of a series of worthless cheques.

It is alleged the man cashed two cheques for $40 and $41.48 at George Straith Ltd., 921 Government, and made a cheque purchase with part of the money.

'SUDSTWO' TOWS AGAIN NEXT WEEK

The Island Tug and Barge Ltd. deep-sea towboat Sudbury II, which returned to home port Friday after nearly seven months at sea, will leave next weekend on another trans-Pacific tow.

But the crew which sailed with her last July will remain ashore, using up accumulated leave of up to three months per man.

The master who brought her home from Japan, Capt. Bill Wilson, will again be in command. He took over from Capt. Harley Blagborne when the latter flew home to be on hand for the birth of his first child.

"Sudtwo" is alongside the Island Tug Jetty in the Inner Harbor, and a swarm of workmen are chipping rust, repainting, putting machinery in top shape. The ship will get complete overhaul, refit, and inspection when she returns here next May.

Her tow on the next trip is the former USN light aircraft carrier Fanshaw Bay, headed for shipbreakers in Japan.

APPEAL FOR TRANSPLANTS

'Bank' an Eye For the Blind

Want to help a blind person see again?

You can—by pledging your eyes to the Eye Bank of Canada when you die and have no further use for them.

In the past year, 205 Canadians had their sight restored through cornea gifted to the eye bank.

The corneal transplant operation has been performed successfully several times at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Gloria Mortimer, field secretary of the Victoria CNIB office, appealed to all persons to will their eyes during White Cane Week, starting Monday, by contacting her at 1609 Blanshard or phoning EV 4-2913.

"The need for healthy corneas never ends," she said. Not all blind persons can be helped this way. But those who are blind because of defective corneas can be given sight again.

This is the way it works: the cornea is the small transparent section in your eye in front of the lens. If it is damaged or becomes clouded, you lose your sight. But a new cornea can restore sight.

The transplant operation is much like replacing a pane of frosted glass with a clear one.

Instead of having one district scout council, a total of eight will be formed. The object is to decentralize scouting in the Greater-Victoria area to permit greater boy and adult participation in the movement.

Drama Festival Society today announced names of the six plays to be presented. They were selected out of a field of 16 entries which were judged earlier by Janie Stevenson of the UBC Drama Department.

"Summer of the Seventeenth Doll," the Theatre Guild entry directed by Mrs. Phyllis Dulmage, will open the festival on Monday, March 21, at Oak Bay Junior High School.

The other five plays which will occupy the week through to March 26, selected at an adjudicators' meeting in Vancouver, are, in order of presentation: University of B.C. Players' Club, "Romanoff and Juliet"; Burnaby Little Theatre, "Edwina Black"; La Trobe Mollere, Vancouver "Zone"; Vancouver Little Theatre, "View From the Bridge"; New Westminster Vagabonds, "Come Back Little Sheba." Winner of the regional festival will meet winners of other provincial festivals in May, in competition for the Calvert Trophy and a $1,000 cash award.

They and a woman, Joan Boger, were held on a vagrancy charge pending the cheque investigation, and were remanded to Monday when they appeared before Magistrate William Ostler Friday.

Police are holding a station wagon bearing Ontario licence plates, which the men apparently drove to Victoria.

Following the arrest police recovered more than 200 cheques, some previously reported stolen in Vancouver.

All three were being held in the city jail, until $250 bail could be arranged.

MONTE ROBERTS

A great many citizens of this, the Fairest City of Them All, are walking the main thoroughfares and the back alleys making sounds such as "Snrrf, Hkkff, Frmmptff" and even "Aaah-chquphm."

If you encounter such a citizen, do not make the mistake of asking "How are you?" for the citizen is apt to tell you, thus ruining your day.

As a special warning, if you encounter ME, do not enquire as to the state of my health, because (after I finish making sounds such as "snrrf, Hkkff," etc.) I will tell you in detail, thus ruining not only your day, but your week and possibly the balance of the month. But I do feel I should explain why all the citizens of this, the Fairest City of Them All, are going around making such sounds, and if not, are huddling in their trundle beds with a glass of hot sarsaparilla within reach. It is because this, the Fairest City of Them All, has the wrong kind of weather.

The weather here is too mild and too balmy and too pleasant.

Because of this weather, the citizens become soft, pliable, and minus resistance to the forces of evil which promote the snrrf-hkkff, frmmptff, and aaah-chquphm routine.

What we need around here is the kind of weather a citizen can get out into and fight, fight, fight.

Do citizens of Halifax go around snorting "Snrrf?"

Do citizens of Montreal greet each other with "Hkkff?"

Who ever heard a "Frmmptff" on the snowbound streets of Winnipeg?

The citizens of the more privileged areas of Canada are blessed with brisk, invigorating, uplifting weather at this season of the year.

They have no time to go around picking up peculiar sensations in their breathing apparatus.

In fact, if a citizen of Halifax, Montreal, or Winnipeg paused long enough for a simple "Snrrf," both ears would be frosted.

This is the kind of weather we need here—not the enervating spring breeze blowing in from the Pacific, but a blood-stirring gale whipping down from the Arctic.

I personally would leave tomorrow for the more privileged parts of Canada, except that every time I try to phone a transportation company for reservations, all I hear on the other end of the line is:

"Aaah-chquphm."

TOPICS of the DAY

Robert C. Jackson, 22, sentenced Nov. 5 to six months for obstructing a city police officer arresting his companion for drunkenness, had his sentence cut Friday by B.C. Appeal Court in Vancouver to time spent in custody.

"Sudtwo" is alongside the Island Tug Jetty in the Inner Harbor, and a swarm of workmen are chipping rust, repainting, putting machinery in top shape. The ship will get complete overhaul, refit, and inspection when she returns here next May.

APPEAL FOR TRANSPLANTS

'Bank' an Eye For the Blind

Want to help a blind person see again? You can—by pledging your eyes to the Eye Bank of Canada when you die and have no further use for them.

In the past year, 205 Canadians had their sight restored through cornea willed to the eye bank.

The corneal transplant operation has been performed successfully several times at Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Gloria Mortimer, field secretary of the Victoria CNIB office, appealed to all persons to will their eyes during White Cane Week, starting Monday, by contacting her at 1609 Blanshard or phoning EV 4-2913.

"The need for healthy corneas never ends," she said. "Not all blind persons can be helped this way. But those who are blind because of defective corneas can be given sight again."

This is the way it works: the cornea is the small transparent section in your eye in front of the lens. If it is damaged or becomes clouded, you lose your sight. But a new cornea can restore sight.

The transplant operation is much like replacing a pane of frosted glass with a clear one.

24-Hour Halt To Shooting In Mid-East

TEL AVIV (UPI) — An Israeli spokesman said today there had been no shooting for 24 hours in the tense Israeli-Syrian demilitarized zone south of the Sea of Galilee.

It was the longest period of quiet since the series of clashes broke out near the Arab village of Tawfik 10 days ago.

Israel was still waiting for a reply to its proposal Friday for talks on "complete peace" with the United Arab Republic's northern (Syrian) region.

The proposal was addressed to Gen. Carl Carlsson von Horn, head of the United Nations truce supervision team.

Israeli army chief of staff Maj. Gen. Haim Laskov said in Jerusalem today that the Syrian army showed "clear signs" of Soviet influence in training and equipment.

In an interview with the newspaper Ma'ariv, Laskov said there had been "changes in equipment" within Syrian forces over the past few years.

It has long been known Russia has supplied the UAR with tanks, jet planes and other military equipment.

Join the Peace To Power Pool

VANCOUVER (CP) — Connection of Peace River resources to an international power pool would result in another $30,000,000 in annual revenue for British Columbia, the Peace River Power Development Company's chief technical adviser said Friday.

SIU MEN ASK POLICE PROBE OF RED INFLUX

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two members of the Seafarers International Union (Ind.) have asked for a full-scale RCMP investigation into alleged Communist infiltration of the labor movement in Canada.

G. A. Hughes and Tom Osborne, claiming to represent about 50 SIU members, also said in an interview they fear that Norman Cunningham, SIU port agent here, is in danger of personal attack. They supplied no details of their fears.

The men said the RCMP should investigate the Canadian Labor Congress, the British Columbia Federation of Labor, the Vancouver Labor Council, the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers (CLC) and the CBRT's seamen's local.

Ralph Chantrell, a leading British scientist who is director and technical adviser to the Peace company, told a meeting at University of B.C. that the province will need power from both the Peace and Columbia Rivers before 1975.

He suggested a reciprocal agreement between all power corporations for a vast power bank which would operate by storing water continuously in readiness for minimum cycles of other harnessed rivers.

TAKE UP SLACK

Under an agreement with other companies, he said, those in the south would supply as many customers as possible until periods when their rivers were at a minimum cycle in power production. Then the Peace, utilizing its vast storage facilities, would take over and provide continuous power even in poor years.

Mr. Chantrell described the Rocky Mountain Trench as the "best part of Canada for mid-northern development" and stressed that "nothing of any account" will be spoiled.

He said transmission of Peace power was definitely no more expensive than any other power transmission, and predicted the total transmission losses for Peace River power would be six to seven per cent compared with eight to 10 per cent with similar operations.

Seven Miners Trapped

TOKYO (AP) — In Japan's worst coalmine disaster in a week, seven men were trapped underground in Yamada today. Dynamite blasts nearby caused the cave-in and sent water flooding the pit where the men were working.

On Monday a gas blast wrecked a mine in Yubari, northern Japan. Thirty-four bodies have been recovered.

SALUTE STARTS FALSE ALARM OF ROYAL BIRTH

RANGERS WALLOPED

Rookie Paces Hawks to Win

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rookie Red Hay tallied two goals and one assist in sparking the Chicago Black Hawks to a 5-1 victory over the New York Rangers, their favorite National Hockey League "cousins," today.

The flame-thatched, six-foot-three centre popped in a slap shot from close range in the first period and then picked up a gift goal in the middle period when his pass from the left boards bounced off New York defenceman Lou Fontinato's skate and trickled into the cage.

The other Chicago goals were scored by Ron Murphy, Murray Balfour, and defenceman Pierre Pilote.

Chicago goalie Glenn Hall had a shutout until 7:12 of the final period when he fanned on a 20-foot angle shot by the Rangers' Dean Prentice.

The Black Hawks, who now have lost only one of 10 games against New York this season, opened up a 2-0 lead in the first period and then sewed up the contest with three goals in a span of 3½ minutes early in the middle period.

OPENING GOAL

Murphy scored Chicago's first goal at 5:02 of the opening session when he intercepted a New York pass in the Rangers' end zone and fired a 35-footer high into the left corner of the net. Hay then scored his first goal of the game at 15:56 with a hard shot that Ranger goalie Gump Worsley never saw.

The Hawks then skated the hapless Rangers off the ice in the second period. Hay set up a 10-foot drive by Balfour at 0:43 and then picked up his gift goal less than a minute later.

Pilote completed Chicago's scoring by poking the puck past Worsley during a power play at 4:13.

Seconds after Pilote's goal, a spectator hurled a yellow flare rocket onto the ice and play was held up momentarily.

READY TO FLEE FROM VOLCANO

KILAUEA CRATER, Hawaii (UPI) — Hawaii Red Cross officials set up an emergency relief centre and prepared evacuation plans today as ominous steam clouds and hissing issued from the Halemaumau firepit inside Kilauea crater.

The Red Cross moved cots and blankets into the Mountain View School a few miles from the crater and the agency's disaster chairman on the big island placed workers on a standby basis for immediate call.

Officials Blamed For Shots

HAVANA (AP) — The impression developed today that all the shooting which threw the opening of the Soviet exposition into turmoil Friday came from trigger-happy Cuban guards and police.

Newspaper handling of the story contributed to a widely held belief the gunfire that marred Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan's visit came solely from official efforts to break up an anti-Communist student demonstration.

All but one of Havana's morning newspapers played down the shooting, which erupted in a nearby park minutes before the scheduled inauguration of the Soviet exposition at the Fine Arts Palace.

Revolution, the organ of Premier Fidel Castro's 16th of July movement, confined its coverage to a brief story below the fold of the front page. It blamed "rich children" instigated by counter-revolutionaries.

Mikoyan Friday night endorsed the Cuban revolution, a regime's expropriation of private property and likened it to the early action of the Bolsheviks in Russia.

Cannon Shots For Anniversary

LONDON (AP) — The bark of big guns and the peal of church bells convinced thousands of Londoners today that Queen Elizabeth's baby had arrived at last. But it was just a false alarm.

The noise of artillery salute echoing over the city commemorated the eighth anniversary of the Queen's accession to the throne.

Thousands of people, hearing the mingled sound of the bells and guns, rang newspaper offices.

"Is it a boy or girl?" they breathlessly asked. They were told it was neither.

Outside Buckingham Palace, crowds cheered Prince Philip as he drove home from a shooting vacation in Norfolk to be near his wife when the baby is born.

The midday boom of a 41-gun salute from Hyde Park started the rumor that events had preceded him.

In the East End, Cockneys heard the 61-gun broadside from the gaunt, grey Tower of London, and the rumor spread.

Elsewhere, ships and shore batteries fired 21-gun salutes. When the baby arrives, the bell-ringers will sound a full peal of bells, which is reserved only for royal marriages, births and coronations.

The birth date is still anybody's guess. Miss Helen Rowe, the Queen's maternity nurse, has not yet taken up residence at Buckingham Palace. She is expected to do so about three days before the estimated time of arrival.

In Victoria a 21-gun salute was fired by the 5th B.C. Independent Medium Battery, RCA, at noon from the Causeway marking the anniversary.

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Luis E. Suero, Dominican Republic attorney-general, said Friday 123 persons have been arrested in connection with a plot discovered recently by the army intelligence service.

B.C. Art Best in Canada But Where Is It Hidden?

VANCOUVER (CP) — Alan Jarvis, former director of the National Gallery in Ottawa, arrived in Vancouver and quickly put the city in its place in the art world.

"It astonished me that a city of such civic magnificence should have such a poor collection," he said today of the permanent collection at the Vancouver Art Gallery.

To put it mildly, it's pitiful," he told reporters, excepting a group of paintings and sketches by native artist Emily Carr.

Mr. Jarvis gave a firm "never" to suggestions advanced here recently that city council take over the financing of the gallery.

"I don't want to be rude, right out from under them. He Times.

about your council, but you can hardly run an art gallery like the street and sanitation department."

City council gave $27,500 to the gallery last year and has donated a total of $178,950 in the last 10 years. The art association has raised $344,050 in the same period.

If council took over the gallery, the results might parallel what happened recently in Hamilton, Mr. Jarvis said.

Hamilton's council appointed a commission of artists to choose 15 paintings and design mural and sculpture for the new city hall, he said. Artists gave their time free.

Then one member of the city council pulled the carpet column he writes for The Times.
